Foreword

With this appendix, we will once again clarify the path in one of the areas whose approach is being revisited by the Lighted Divine Popularism System. The goal here is to be in line with a perspective aiming at the rapid anchoring of a new system based on Holistic Health or Global Bodily Harmony.

This realization aims at allowing a fast and lasting healing of the Human being on the global level of the Energetic Trine or Communal Body.

Once this is accomplished, we will witness the eradication of all diseases within the Human masses all over the surface of Earth Terra.

Introduction

As part of the new momentum toward establishing the new Political-Civilizational Paradigm, our current medical practices will have to be, from the outset, simplified and purged of those ingrained attitudes--accepted as standard medical treatment--that, in reality, only make matters worse by hastening the body's death after a long and unnecessary agony. Therefore, existing human expertise and infrastructure will need to be updated to align with the systemic goals to be achieved.

As a first step, a halt will have to be put to imports of medications that are primarily produced by the pharmaceutical industry controlled by the globalist elite, whose intents are entirely malicious. Specific produce may be retained--those whose temporary usefulness can still serve the medical profession--but they must be produced locally.

Next, need will be to quickly implement a restructuring of the sector that will allow to put to task nationally recognized, competent traditional therapists and herbalists, as well as the physicians and paramedical body best suited to manage the transition to the new healthcare system.

At the same time, new so-called holistic healing methods will be developed, incorporating a range of techniques and natural high-tech resolutions to restore a near-permanent balance to each individual's trine energetic body.

At the end of this process, our human societies will be significantly relieved of the burden of anti-Divine practices, which have contributed to distancing peoples from the Divine perfection that is the purpose of incarnation into life, and this will allow human beings to reconnect with God in Simplicity, Joy, and Wisdom.

A Little Insight Into Modern Medicine

Modern Medicine Unmasked

To shed light on the harmful nature of the current healthcare system and the obscure, primitive, and criminal medical practices associated with it, a few particularly valuable excerpts will be highlighted in the following pages to clarify and introduce the subject. This will undoubtedly enable the reader to view matters from a broader perspective, grounded in truths that are often lacking among the vast majority of the Earth's population.

It is on the basis of these key elements within the overall picture--now finally brought into focus--that the redesign and rebuilding of the new medical and healthcare system can be planned, which will ultimately make it possible to avoid the pitfalls--partly concealed--that stand in the way of the healing of human beings and living beings in general.

The following are quotations taken entirely from the Phoenix Journals series, dictated by the Creator Father under the title of Commander of the Intergalactic Fleet of the United Federation from the Pleiades Sector, of which Mother Earth is a part. As the reader will see, His pen name and command title is Hatonn, or simply Aton. The comments in bold come directly from Him.

Confessions of A Medical Heretic And Murder By Injection

Perhaps it is that I don't like for Dharma and me to have to take all the blame for bringing you truth and opening the can of viperous scorpions. So, even though there are good books with fair exposure of the conspiracy, I believe you should not pass another day without ordering up CONFESSIONS OF A MEDICAL HERETIC by Robert S. Mendelsohn, M.D. (Medical Discloser) and MURDER BY INJECTION by Eustace Mullins, M.T.T.T. (Mad Tattle-Tale Teller). Both, you will find, are filled to overflow with sick, sick humor which should startle you into some kind of reverse behavior from what you have believed if you have been among the "sleeping". My point is to shock you and then you can get your documented confirmation of this conspiracy of horror and perhaps, at some point, save your life, limb and a precious member of your loved circle.

Is all medicine bad? No. Are all doctors conspirators? No--some are the worst kind of victim of the conspiracy to kill, maim and addict.

For instance, let us say you are diagnosed with cancer of something or other--what are your choices? Do you want to go with the odds of an average of 12 years longer life, or 3? Well, diagnosed but untreated cancer patients have an average additional life expectancy of some 12 years -- diagnosed and TREATED victims have an average of 3.

To treat an illness with poison and radiation, which also kills, is somehow the most heinous approach since blood-letting and leeching. It would be ever so much better for the comfort of the patient to simply outright electrocute the patient. But no, you slowly poison and radiate the poor beings to a slow and agonizing death by your "Cut, slash, burn and poison" treatment.

Is cancer treatment improving? No. Is the incidence less? No, it is higher. Can you treat self with nutrition and herbs? No, not if you don't want to go to prison. When a substance is utilized which is proven valid and curative; it is immediately made "illegal" to even possess, much less utilize. If you offer a bit of hydrogen peroxide for sterilization and good nutrition, you are convicted of practicing medicine with or without a license (depending on whether you are a physician or a layman). Do you realize it is illegal to eat pits from apricots? That is because apricot pits contain laetrile. They also contain bits and traces of arsenic, but then, you must only get arsenic from rat-killers on the open market from the elite chemical houses.

While I am on the subject, also get A HIGHER FORM OF KILLING by Robert Harris and Jeremy Paxman, BAD BLOOD by James H. Jones and then try OTHER LOSSES by Bacque. The latter has nothing to do with medicine but outright murder. If you don't want to read these books then I ask that you trust my scanners and let us get busy and gain control (you never had control) of this insanity. "Regain" would be the term of choice but it has been ever thus.

I will continue here by presenting Dr. Mendelsohn's "Non Credo" at the beginning of his book for it is a first person appraisal of a very bad situation. Dr. Mendelsohn was, in 1979, Chairman of the Medical Licensing Committee for the State of Illinois, Associate Professor of Preventive Medicine and Community Health in the School of Medicine of the University of Illinois and the recipient of numerous awards for excellence in medicine and medical instruction. He right out front tells you how to begin to make your own decisions regarding your medical treatment or "death program". Handled properly, good medical care can save your life--bad care can shorten and intensify the misery by uncountable measures. Medicine as practiced, particularly in America, is totally dangerous to your health; hospitals are terrible and dangerous places for the sick and infirm and you should always check the status of new car purchases of your physician and/or surgeon. You are probably among the few "lucky" persons if you can't afford health insurance.

Dr. Mendelsohn's Non-Credo

Quote:

I do not believe in Modern Medicine. I am a medical heretic. My aim in this book is to persuade you to become a heretic, too.

I haven't always been a medical heretic. I once believed in Modern Medicine.

In medical school, I failed to look deeply into a study that was going on around me, of the effects of the hormone DES--because I believed. Who could have suspected that twenty years later we would discover that DES causes vaginal cancer and genital abnormalities in children born to women receiving the drug during pregnancy.

I confess that I failed to be suspicious of oxygen therapy for premature infants, even though the best equipped and most advanced premature nurseries had an incidence of partial or total blindness of around ninety percent of all low birth weight infants. A few miles away at a large, less "advanced" hospital, the incidence of this condition--retrolental fibroplasia--was less than ten percent. I asked my professors in medical school to explain the difference. And I believed them when they said the doctors in the poorer hospital just didn't know how to make the correct diagnosis.

A year or two later it was proved that the cause of retrolental fibroplasia was the high concentrations of oxygen administered to the preemies. The affluent medical centers had higher rates of blinding simply because they could afford the very best nursery equipment, the most expensive and modern plastic incubators which guaranteed that ALL the oxygen pumped in reached the infant. At the poorer nurseries, however, old-fashioned incubators were used. They looked like bathtubs with very loose metal lids. They were so leaky that it made very little difference how much oxygen was pumped in, not enough reached the infant to blind it.

I still believed when I took part in a scientific paper on the use of the antibiotic Terramycin in treating respiratory conditions in premature babies. We claimed there were no side effects. Of course there weren't. We didn't wait long enough to find out that not only didn't Terramycin--or any other antibiotic -- do much good for these infections, but that it -- and other tetracycline antibiotics -- left thousands of children with yellow-green teeth and tetracycline deposits in their bones.

And I confess that I believed in the irradiation of tonsils, lymph nodes, and the thymus gland. I believed my professors when they said that of course radiation was dangerous, but that the doses we were using were absolutely harmless. [H: This reminds us of the spring through fall of 1984 when Dharma had surgery for a "Post-bulbar ulcer" with a total failure to hook up everything correctly after rearranging the inside organs and removing half the stomach. Well there were X rays for everything over and over again; then, the entire surgical procedure had to be repeated because it was so botched in the first go -- more and more X rays, pain, misery and money--oh dear, was there money at about $35,000 to $40,000 each go at it. When her hair began to fall out she refused more X rays -- from teeth to lung scans. She was badgered and denounced (as a heretic) because "there couldn't be any danger in the dosages of X ray given her--one thing (hair loss) had nothing to do with the other. Ah so -- why is it that hair loss is a PRIMARY symptom of overdose? She was a good sport, however, for with only a third of a stomach, surely all weight loss problems would be GONE! Not so, however, for when the stomach didn't empty--it simply stretched and stretched until it would empty right back to where the "stuff" came from. In addition, with each hospitalization, nutrients were poured into the blood stream directly in calorie counts that would blow a weight-lifter's figure. Did she know better? Of course, she had worked in a hospital for much of her life and got kicked off every high-level panel because she insisted that good nutrition was mandatory if you expect good health. Why, she had even passed out to her Division personnel, Dr. Mendelsohn's book (but she almost got fired for that little investment in truth). She would have been fired had there been anyone to take her place in the organization. I cannot stress enough how much value I think you will find in the above listed books.]

Years later -- around the time we found out that the "absolutely harmless" radiation sown a decade or two before was now reaping a harvest of thyroid tumors--I couldn't help wondering when some of my former patients came back with nodules on their thyroids: Why are you coming back to me? To me, who did this to you in the first place.

But I no longer believe in Modern Medicine.

I believe that despite all the super technology and elite bedside manner that's supposed to make you feel about as well cared for as an astronaut on the way to the moon, the greatest danger to your health is the doctor who practices Modern Medicine.

I believe that Modern Medicine's treatments for disease are seldom effective, and that they're often more dangerous than the diseases they're designed to treat.

I believe the dangers are compounded by the widespread use of dangerous procedures for non-diseases.

I believe that more than ninety percent of Modern Medicine could disappear from the face of the earth--doctors, hospitals, drugs, and equipment--and the effect on our health would be immediate and beneficial.

I believe that Modern Medicine has gone too far, by using in everyday situations extreme treatments designed for critical conditions.

Every minute of every day Modern Medicine prides itself on going too far. A recent article, "Cleveland's Marvelous Medical Factory", boasted of the Cleveland Clinic's "accomplishments last year: 2,980 open-heart operations, 1.3 million laboratory tests, 73,320 electrocardiograms, 7,770 full-body X ray scans, 210,378 other radiological studies, 24,368 surgical procedures.

Not one of these procedures has been proved to have the least little bit to do with maintaining or restoring health. And the article, which was published in the Cleveland Clinic's own magazine, fails to boast or even mention that any people were helped by any of this expensive extravagance. That's because the product of this factory is not health at all.

So when you go to the doctor, you're seen not as a person who needs help with his or her health, but as a potential market for the medical factory's products.

[H: By the way, for you who are curious and wonder what is or has been done to "Jay" of whom we spoke the other day as to "treatment". I must tell you that Jay departed your plane a few days past. He had almost everything from waist to hips invaded and insulted with colostomy and the whole works. When he was totally terminal, they started chemotherapy after which he succumbed very, very quickly. At least the beloved friend can rest in peace. I suggest Kathy speak with her friend who has lymph cancer diagnosis and is undergoing "healing radiation and chemotherapy"; you see the radiation is often hidden in the chemicals in the lesser therapy; consider carefully that which is being done TO HER. She has a horrendously stressful personal experience going on and when she attends what's eating her, it won't matter much what she is eating! She can heal herself but I promise you--Modern Medicine will kill her!]

If you're pregnant, you go to the doctor and he treats you as if you're sick. Childbirth is a nine-month disease which must be "treated", so you're sold on intravenous fluid bags, fetal monitors, a host of drugs, the totally unnecessary episiotomy (which usually presents itself prior to the doctor's quick witted slicing), and--the top of the line product--the wondrous "Caesarean delivery"!

If you make the mistake of going to the doctor with a cold or the flu, he's liable to give you antibiotics, which are not only powerless against colds and flu but which leave you more likely to come down with worse problems.

If your child is a little too peppy for his teacher to handle, your doctor may go too far and turn him into a drug dependent.

If your new baby goes off his or her feed for a day and doesn't gain weight as fast as the doctor's manual says, he might barrage your breast-feeding with drugs to halt the natural process and make room in the baby's tummy for man-made formula, which is dangerous.

If you're foolish enough to make that yearly visit for a routine examination, the receptionist's petulance, the other patients' cigarette smoke, or the doctor's very presence could raise your blood pressure enough so that you won't go home empty-handed. Another life "saved" by antihypertensive drugs. Another sex life down the drain, [H: And another marriage down the tubes as well.] since more impotence is caused by drug therapy than by psychological problems.

If you're unfortunate enough to be near a hospital when your last days on earth approach, your doctor will make sure your $500-a-day (or worse) deathbed has all the latest electronic gear with a staff of strangers to hear your last words. But, since those strangers are paid to keep your family away from you, you won't have anything to say. Your last sounds will be the electronic whistle on the cardiogram. Your relatives will participate; they'll pay the bill.

No wonder children are afraid of doctors. They know! Their instincts for real danger are uncorrupted. Fear seldom actually disappears. Adults are afraid, too, but they can't admit it, even to themselves. What happens is we become afraid of something else. We learn to fear not the doctor but what brings us to the doctor in the first place: our body and its natural processes.

When you fear something, you avoid it. You ignore it. You shy away from it. You pretend it doesn't exist. You let someone else worry about it. This is how the doctor takes over. We let him. We say: I don't want to have anything to do with this, my body and its problems, doc. You take care of it, doc. Do what you have to do.

So the doctor does!

When doctors are criticized for not telling their patients about the side effects of the drugs they prescribe, they defend themselves on the grounds that the doctor-patient relationship would suffer from such honesty. That defense implies that the doctor-patient relationship is based on something other than knowledge. It's based on faith.

We don't say we know our doctors are good; we say we have faith in them. We trust them.

Don't think doctors aren't aware of the difference. And don't believe for a minute that they don't play it for all it's worth. Because what's at stake is the whole ball game, the whole ninety percent or more of Modern Medicine that we don't need, that, as a matter of fact, is out to kill us.

Modern Medicine can't survive without our faith, because Modern Medicine is neither an art nor a science. It's a religion.

One definition of religion identifies it as any organized effort to deal with puzzling or mysterious things we see going on in and around us. The Church of Modern Medicine deals with the most puzzling phenomena: birth, death, and all the tricks our bodies play on us--and we on them--in between. In THE GOLDEN BOUGH, religion is defined as the attempt to gain the favor of "powers superior to man, which are believed to direct and control the course of nature and of human life".

If people don't spend billions of dollars on the Church of Modern Medicine in order to gain favor with the powers that direct and control human life, what do they spend it on?

Common to all religions is the claim that reality is not limited to or dependent upon what can be seen, heard, felt, tasted, or smelled. You can easily test modern medical religion on this characteristic by simply asking your doctor WHY? enough times. Why are you prescribing this drug? Why is this operation going to do me any good? Why do I have to do that? Why do you have to do that to me?

Just ask WHY? Enough times and sooner or later you'll reach the Chasm of Faith. Your doctor will retreat into the fact that you have no way of knowing or understanding all the wonders he has at his command. Just trust me.

You've just had your first lesson in medical heresy. Lesson Number Two is that if a doctor ever wants to do something to you that you're afraid of and you ask why? enough times until he says, "Just Trust Me". What you're to do is turn around and put as much distance between you and him as you can, as fast as your condition will allow.

Unfortunately, very few people do that. They submit. They allow their fear of the witch doctor's mask, the unknown spirit behind it, and the mystery of what is happening and of what will happen, to change into respectful awe of the whole show.

But you don't have to let the witch doctor have his way. You can liberate yourself from Modern Medicine--and it doesn't mean you'll have to take chances with your health. In fact you'll be taking less of a chance with your health, because there's no more dangerous activity than walking into a doctor's office, clinic, or hospital unprepared.

And by prepared I don't mean having your insurance forms filled out. I mean you have to get in and out alive and accomplish your mission. For that, you need appropriate tools, skills, and cunning.

The first tool you must have is knowledge of the enemy. Once you understand Modern Medicine as a religion, you can fight it and defend yourself much more effectively than when you think you're fighting an art or a science. Of course, the Church of Modern Medicine never calls itself a church. You'll never see a medical building dedicated to the religion of medicine, always the medical arts, or medical science.

Modern Medicine relies on faith to survive. All religions do. So heavily does the Church of Modern Medicine rely on faith that if everyone somehow simply forgot to believe in it for just one day, the whole system would collapse. For how else could any institution get people to do the things Modern Medicine gets people to do, without inducing a profound suspension of doubt? Would people allow themselves to be artificially put to sleep and then cut to pieces in a process they couldn't have the slightest notion about--if they didn't have faith? Would people swallow the thousands of tons of pills every year--again without the slightest knowledge of what these chemicals are going to do--if they didn't have faith?

If Modern Medicine had to validate its procedures objectively, this book wouldn't be necessary. That's why I'm going to demonstrate how Modern Medicine is not a church you want to have faith in.

Some doctors are worried about scaring their patients. While you're reading this book, you are, in a sense, my patient. I think you should be scared. You're supposed to be scared when your well-being and freedom are threatened. And you are, right now, being threatened.

If you're ready to learn some of the shocking things your doctor knows but won't tell you; if you're ready to find out if your doctor is dangerous; if you're ready to learn how to protect yourself from your doctor; you should keep reading, because that's what this book is about.

AND, SO BE IT!

I think it most interesting that Mendelsohn ends his book with an Epilog on getting a new doctor. Mullins ends his on the subject of the drug trust and the Rockefeller Syndicate. It is hard for me to evaluate which is more important in revelation material. I do make note that in both volumes, the IMMUNIZATION program as practiced is the most dangerous one program ever foisted off on mankind and babies. Once inoculated, the body carries the damaging invasion substance for the remainder of the life of the body in point. This is also one of the biggest money-makers in Modern Medicine and chemical "warfare" against the human species. If you continue to allow the system to trap you, you are to blame for your own misfortune. Remember--you have (had, at least) a Constitution which was to protect your unalienable rights. I suggest you get back to work, put healing back into the Medical Profession and remove "religion". Spiritual healing is what is important--not religion.

This is why I dedicate this volume to every holistic and alternative healing practitioner. You can assist a body to heal--you cannot CURE it, only the person with the ailment can cure the dis-ease whatever it might be. This differs not from Spiritual Godness--no other can make your journey FOR you--not your spouse, your family, your friend, or Christ--YOU WILL DO IT!

Profits From Cancer

As we move on with this gross dissertation on "Cancer", I ask that you at America West please make sure our old hard-ball denouncer and debunker in Florida (who has a talk-radio show in which he asked me to guest and then twice was so insulting as to embarrass his own listeners and claimed to be head of "World Headquarters for Information" or something as silly -- I believe Jack Cole was his name, if not please Edit to correctness) GETS A COPY OF THIS WHOLE PAPER. He said: "If you are real, Hatonn, then why don't you cure cancer and then we could believe you!" Do you ones actually still sit with the opinion that that would be true? Do you think anyone or thing will be allowed to give YOU the cure for anything? This bunch also accused us of anti-Semitism--well, these are the guilty parties, what do YOU say? If you wish to label these bastard killers "Semites", I guess you must know that I am anti-Semitic. They are most certainly self-proclaimed Zionists and brothers, ZIONISM IS RACISM! Further, the attempt is to wipe out all other races -- AND THESE ARE NOT JUDEANS! It is time that EVERY SINGLE ONE OF YOU CONFRONT THESE FACTS! "Jews" will be just as dead as fast, or faster, than any other group of people on the face of the earth -- "Jews", if that is what you wish to label selves (although you are NOT), had better take note that you are the primary target because you ARE THE ENEMY OF THE ELITE ZIONISTS!

In 1978, the American Cancer Society had $140 million income of which less than 30% was spent on cancer research, with 56% going to cover administrative costs. The Society had $200 million in investments. Before the Bobst-Lasker takeover in 1944, its income had never gone past $600,000 a year; the following year, it raised $5 million. In 1982, Allan Sonnenshein published a warning, "Watchout; the American Cancer Society May Be Hazardous to Your Health!" In 1955, in a power move, ACS took over all research from the National Research Council, executing a brilliant coup by creating a new Science Advisory Council to represent American hospitals and universities. Dr. Samuel Epstein, in his book, THE POLITICS OF CANCER, noted that "apart from being uninvolved in cancer prevention, other than, to a limited extent, tobacco, senior (ACS) officials have developed for the society a reputation of being indifferent, if not actively hostile, to regulatory needs for the prevention of exposure to carcinogenic chemicals in the general environment and in the workplace." Epstein reported that the ACS opposed regulation of such potential carcinogens as Red Dye #2, TRIS, and DES. ACS refused to support the Clean Water Act, and blamed victims for cancer. EPA had reported that indoor pollutants cause six thousand cancer deaths a year and that 38 million Americans drink water with unsafe levels of lead and other toxic matter, [H: Just today it is making headlines that thousands of babies have been given lead in their formulas producing lead poisoning and retardation--due to using tap water to mix baby formulas. Does this strike you as being particularly horrendous that you are lied to about your very life-resources?] including chlorine by-products. DES, diethylstilbestrol, was widely used from the 1940's to the early 1970's as a synthetic female hormone which was routinely prescribed by doctors to prevent miscarriage; it was not tested for possible side effects, nor did anyone know what they were. Finally, a student at the University of Chicago Medical Center showed that not only was it ineffective in preventing miscarriage, but it might have side effects. This finding failed to halt its use. In 1972, its longterm effects began to appear, cancer of the breast, with vaginal cancer in daughters of those patients treated with DES, as well as other genital malformations and abnormalities. It was also linked to liver damage.

Lee Edson, in THE CANCER RIPOFF notes that 74 private companies near the National Institute of Health in Bethesda were charging the government 144% overhead plus 9% profit to perform virus research. Nixon had placed his protege, Dr. Frank Rauscher, in charge of NCI; he was a virologist who began to promote chemotherapy as the answer to cancer. Dr. Rauscher claimed that the NCI chemotherapy program "has provided effective treatment for cancer patients all over this country, and the world". This claim was promptly challenged by Dean Burk, head of the cyclochemical section of the NCI, pointing out that "virtually all of the chemotherapeutic agents now approved by the FDA for use or testing in human cancer patients are highly toxic to markedly immuno-suppressive and highly carcinogenic in rats and mice, themselves producing cancers in a wide variety of body organs". Despite this criticism, Rauscher was then named head of the President's National Cancer Advisory Board.

The side effects of chemotherapy have been graphically described by many of its victims, the terrible nausea, loss of hair, sudden weight loss and many other adverse factors. A book by M. Morra, CHOICES; REALISTIC ALTERNATIVES IN CANCER TREATMENT, Avon, 1980, reports favorably on all of the Establishment's "cut, slash and burn techniques". Morra mentions diet only in its relation to nausea from chemotherapy; he soberly advises that you "let someone else do the cooking so that the smell of the food won't nauseate you." Morra gave no advice on how to serve food without smell.

Since Memorial Sloan Kettering's first benefactor, James Ewing, dosed himself to death with radium in 1913, it has remained the treatment of choice at this Cancer Center. The New York Times noted July 4, 1979 that 70% of all cancer patients at Memorial receive radiation treatments, at a charge of $500,000 a year. It now performs 11,000 surgical procedures and 65,000 radium treatments a year. In 1980, Memorial bought all new equipment for its radium treatment, an expenditure of $4.5 million. However, radium treatment continues to be a horrifying treatment in its effects.

In 1937, Dr. Percy Furnivall, a prominent surgeon at London Hospital, diagnosed his own tumor as cancer. On February 26, 1938, he published in the British Medical Journal an impassioned plea as a result of his experience, "Tragedies from radium treatment are of frequent occurrence, and the publicity given to radium treatment of cancer is a disgrace to the Minister of Health and the vested interests which charge fantastic prices for this body-destroying substance. I do not wish my worst enemy the prolonged hell I have been through with radium neuritis and myalgic over six months....This account of my own case is a plea for a very careful consideration of all the factors before deciding which is the most suitable form of treatment." He died shortly thereafter, yet his plea had no effect on the continued use of radium treatments for cancer.

The late Senator Hubert Humphrey, who died of cancer, is often cited as an advertisement for radium treatment. Jane Brody in her New York times book, YOU CAN FIGHT CANCER AND WIN, coauthored with American Cancer Society vice-president Holleb in 1977, cites Hubert Humphrey as "a famous beneficiary of modern radiotherapy". She glosses over the fact that "this famous beneficiary" was totally disillusioned with radium therapy before his death. In 1973 he was found to have cancer of the bladder; he was treated by X ray, and in 1976, his physician, Dr. Dabney Jarman, triumphantly reported that "As far as we are concerned, the Senator is cured." (New York Times, October 6, 1976). Humphrey continued to wither away, undergoing more chemotherapy, until he flatly refused to go back to Memorial Cancer Center for more treatment. Quoted in the Daily News, January 14, 1978, he called chemotherapy "bottled death".

The Washington Post in February 1988 ran a story "Cancer Treatment Toxic". "We are spared very little as we see healthy looking people turned before our eyes into shaking, shivering, nauseated bundles of misery...The successes, although few, have been dramatic".

One factor which has been consistently ignored in the development of cancer is the role of unusual stress. We all face daily stresses in our lives, with which we cope as best we can. However, unusual and prolonged stress places a greater strain on our system than we may be able to cope with. This is particularly true today, when sinister hidden forces poison all our communications with their shadowy propaganda, while assuring us that they stand only for "compassion and caring". A writer named Morley Roberts advanced a startling theory of cancer in 1926. An English scientist, Roberts belonged to no known school of thought, and because of his independence, his works have been largely ignored. His theory of Organic Materialism advances the following points:

"Malignancy and Evolution: Malignancy is the diversion of energy from high differentiation into the proliferation of low-grade epithelia which can endure irritation but only differentiate with difficulty". Epithelioma, a common form of cancer, is the multiplication of cells of the simplest type in the body, which, like those of the outer skin, the epidermis, are comparably short-lived and unable to differentiate. An organism afflicted with cancer is unable to differentiate to meet the conditions of its existence, because its energy has been diverted into multiplying low-grade cells.

Cancer is the proliferation of low grade cell colonies in the organism. They migrate through the body seeking a place for themselves, although they have no function. Wherever they gather, they rob the higher grade cells of nourishment, where they are gathered into cell colonies as the organs of the body. These organs are choked off and starve, eventually causing the death of the organism. The modern State is a malignant organism dedicated to the proliferation of lower grade units at the expense of higher, more differentiated types. The more productive organisms are heavily taxed to support large numbers of non-productive and poorly differentiated growths. The steadily increasing strain on the productive members of the State causes their premature death, just as the proliferation of the lower grade cells in the cancerous organism kills the higher differentiated cells. Roberts posits the question, "May we go further and even say that the common tendency to malignancy is the result of sociology refinements which ask for a higher role for epithelia?"

Morley Roberts posited a theory of the development of the organism, in which other cells began to gather around the excretory cell colonies of primitive organisms, and subsequently these cell colonies began to give off secretions which were poisonous to the organism. In self-defense, the organism threw up fortifications, or other cell colonies, around the vicious presence, which, in time, became part of the organism, and whose secretions became useful to it. Roberts calls this a theory of the development of the organs of the body.

The role of nutrition in cancer has yet to be seriously researched by the billion dollar boondoggles of the National Cancer Institute. Yet in 1887, an Albany, New York physician, Ephraim Cutter, M.D. wrote a book called DIET IN CANCER, in which he stated, "Cancer is a disease of nutrition".

Hippocrates coined the word diatitia, meaning "a way of life" which is what a diet is. In the classical world, "meat" meant the daily fare, and referred to oats, barley, rye, wheat, fruit and nuts. The confusion as to the meaning of the word meat occurs in translations of the Bible. In Genesis, it is stated, "Behold, I have given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat". Hippocrates' advice to physicians was that they should first find out what food is given to a patient, and who gives it.

The ongoing controversy over laetrile revolves around the fact that it is a substance called a nitriloside. In 1952, Dr. Ernest A. Krebs, Jr., a biochemist, discovered that cancer is caused by a deficiency of nitrilosides, which occur naturally in over twelve hundred foods and plants. Animals usually instinctively seek out grasses and other plants which contain nitrilosides, yet when humans do the same thing they are attacked by federal agents. Some researchers believe that the adverse effects of carcinogens, radiation and sunburn on humans is caused by the fact that they are suffering from poor nutrition. These nutrition experts argue that coal tar does not cause cancer and that the sun does not cause skin cancer. Rather, these conditions arise from the sun's effect upon the skin of a person who is consuming too many sugars, fats and dairy products. The sun's rays create an acidic condition which causes these substances to rise to the surface of the skin, causing an irritation which can then become a catalyst. It is noted that people in tropical countries, who are exposed to strong sunlight, rarely get skin cancer because they eat little meat and fats. It was also discovered after the atomic bombing of Japanese civilians that those who were still eating their traditional diet of brown rice, sea salt and miso vegetables, were little damaged by the same amount of atomic radiation which killed those who were eating a more modern diet of fats and meats.

Some experts note that they can detect cancer by the peculiar smell of a person in its early stages, the smell of decomposition. Others note that cancer can be detected by a greenish cast to the skin. The epidemic of prostate cancer among American men seems to be the result of a diet of rich foods, with frequent ingestion of eggs, meat and dairy products, and baked goods made with refined flour. A suggested remedy is a diet of fruit and rice, the same diet which is recommended to lower blood pressure and which has been featured at Duke University for many years. Beef is said to be particularly dangerous for prostate and colon cancer. Nutritionists believe that cancer represents a reverse evolutionary process, in which cells decompose or change back to a more primordial vegetable type of life. This corresponds in some ways with the theories of Morley Roberts.

It is notable that only four percent of the nation's medical schools offer a course in nutrition. This reflects the Rockefeller Medical Monopoly's obsession with drugs and its commitment to the allopathic school of medicine, as opposed to homeopathic or holistic medicine.

Nobel Prize winner James Watson declared at a cancer symposium at MIT that "the American public has been sold a nasty bill of goods about cancer...a soporific orgy", as reported in the New York Times March 9, 1975. In January of 1975, Dr. Charles C. Edwards, a researcher, wrote to the Secretary of HEW that the war on cancer was politically motivated and was based on spending money. The prominent French oncologist, Dr. Lucien Israel, said, "Radium is an unproven method in many cases...indeed, there have been no conclusive trials" on radiation therapy. Israel terms it "a palliative for relief of pain, etc., temporary in nature". He also points out that "The medical community has been thrown into confusion by recent studies which have shown that metastases may be more frequent in cases that have received radiation". In short, the radiation increases the spread of cancer. It has long been known that cutting into a tumor causes it to spread throughout the body. The exploratory operation to see if you have cancer usually guarantees that it will be fatal.

Nevertheless, the American Cancer Society continues to back all of the losing methods of treating cancer. For twenty years, it has patently repeated its famous Cancer's Seven Warning Signals, which ignore chemicals in the environment and discounts FDA warnings about coal tar and hair dyes. In 1976, the ACS released a press communication, "Urgent Message; Mammography; Benefits and Risks". Dr. John Bailar of the Harvard School of Public Health, and editor of the prestigious NCI Cancer Journal, was horrified. He wrote a letter to the acting director of the NCI, Dr. Guy Newell, "I have just become aware of a problem that has the seeds of a major disaster.... The Urgent Message itself is plain hogwash, the statement is seriously faulty, and hence represents a grave danger to that bulk of women who should avoid mammography." Nevertheless, the ACS flyer went to every hospital in New York, and to 15,000 physicians. Despite the known risks of exposing women to repeated X rays, the ACS still emphasizes annual mammographies as one of its most vaunted techniques for "controlling" cancer. Jane Brody's book, YOU CAN FIGHT CANCER AND WIN, recommends this and many other ACS goals.

[H: I ask you to pause right here and harken back to the news YESTERDAY. There is potential severe threat to some women undergoing mammograms. This was headline news and still, again, they discounted the numbers of at risk patients to be so slight as to not be worthy of serious note. If you don't see the confirmations flowing all about you, then how are we to ever reach the masses of civilization? If you are so asleep that you allow your own murder without speaking out -- then how can God, through his Hosts, do your job FOR you? You see, I CAN give you the cure for cancer -- pure and simple, does it make you believe me? I thought not! You want magic with no responsibility and, moreover, without changing any of your unGodly behaviors for you want to continue with the "if it feels good--go for it". Chelas, it is those irresponsible actions of the physical being now trained in false expectations which has brought you to this stage and you will not heal anything without changing the status of your mental-set. You, for instance, cannot stamp out venereal diseases or stop promiscuity by passing out condoms or teaching "safe sex" in grade schools or kindergarten. Until, further, the adults take responsibility, how in the world do you expect the children to do other than worse than the example? So be it].

The American Cancer Society also stands firmly behind radical mastectomy, the total removal of the breast in cases of women's breast cancer [H: and then restructuring with silicone implants, etc. Which came first, the poison chicken or the infected egg?]. This technique is frowned upon as unusually brutal and ineffective; it has long been abandoned in most European countries, including England, France and the Scandinavian countries and neighboring Canada. In 1975, when Rose Kuttner published her definitive work, BREAST CANCER which was critical of radical mastectomy, the ACS refused to list or recommend it.

It was Elmer Bobst's goal to make the National Cancer Institute "autonomous", much as the Federal Reserve System is "autonomous". He was able to achieve this goal because of his longstanding personal connection with President Richard Nixon. As the mastermind of the American Cancer Society, he really intended it to become "autonomous" from Washington influence, while making it completely subservient to the American Cancer Society from New York. Rep. David Obey, Democrat, Wisconsin, noted that "The American Cancer Society wants to keep the National Cancer Institute strong in bank-roll and weak in staff so that it can direct its spending without too much interference". A very astute observation. One of its directors, Mary Lasker, who, thirty-six years after Albert Lasker's death, is still described by Washington observers as the most powerful woman in American medicine. The National Institute of Health bought the Visitation Convent in Bethesda from the Catholic Church for $4.4 million; it now houses the Mary Lasker Center. Through her access to funding, the ACS maintains fulltime lobbyists in Washington, headed by Col. Luke Quinn, and aided by Mike Gorman. The Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, with Washington lobbyist Lloyd Cutler, also works with Mary Lasker.

Whatever else may be said of the American Cancer Society, there can be no doubt that it remains well insulated against reality. A leading Washington reporter, Daniel S. Greenberg, wrote in the Columbia Journalism Review in 1975 that cancer rates for most types of cancer had been static since the 1950's; some rates actually declined, probably because the use of toxic chemotherapy increased the death rate. One researcher told Greenberg there had been little improvement since 1945. Dr. Frank Rauscher challenged Greenberg at the 1975 ACS Science Writers Seminar, claiming that these figures were out of date; however, when the new figures were released, they upheld Greenberg's findings. This rings hollowly against the annual promises of "breakthroughs" when the two and a half million "volunteers" swarm across America shaking their tin cans and begging for the rich. They have been making these same promises and raising the same amounts of money, or more, for almost fifty years. Laurance Rockefeller noted in Reader's Digest, February 1957 an exultant comment, "There is, for the first time, a scent of ultimate victory in the air", as he described "progress against cancer". Sloan Kettering director C.P. Dusty Rhodes was quoted in the Denver Post, October 3, 1953, "I am convinced that in the next decade, or maybe more, we will have a chemical as effective against cancer as sulfanilamides and penicillin are against bacterial infection." Well, maybe more. In 1956, Dr. Wendell F. Stanley, a Nobel Prize Winner, reported in an address to the annual AMA convention, "viruses are the prime cause of most types of cancer". Nothing more has been heard on this subject in thirty years.

One physician, Dr. Cecil Pitard, was informed that he had terminal cancer and that he had only a few weeks to live. The Knoxville, Tennessee physician was diagnosed at the Mayo Clinic as having lymphoma. Lymphatic cancer results because the body is no longer able to detoxify or cleanse itself. Tonsillectomies often initiate a deterioration of the lymphatic system, resulting in lymph gland inflammation, and eventually, lymphatic cancer. With nothing to lose, Dr. Pitard experimented on himself with the anti-flu bacterial antigen, staphage lysate and sodium butyrate, a fatty acid food found in milk and butter. He soon found that he had been completely cured. Nevertheless, the Cancer Establishment ignored his report, and became even more vociferous in its campaign against "unproven remedies". In most cases like Dr. Pitard's the cancer profiteers sneer that it probably was misdiagnosed and he never had cancer, or that he had a "spontaneous remission," which is their most often repeated response. It would seem that they would show some interest in how to obtain a "spontaneous remission" because they have now been talking about it for half a century, yet we have heard nothing from the $70 million a year research program at Sloan Kettering about spontaneous remission.

After Dr. Ralph Moss had been fired from Sloan Kettering for revealing the positive results of laetrile experiments, he made public the fact that the Institute was sitting on many other results of successful treatment of cancer, including more than one thousand positive cases of response to the Coley treatment since 1906. Moss reported that Dr. James Ewing, "Coley's nemesis and arch rival, turned Memorial Hospital into a medical branch of the radium trust." Dr. William E. Koch, professor of physiology at Detroit Medical College and the University of Michigan, presaged freeradical pathology treatment with the development of Glyoxylide, which stimulated the body to oxidate toxins. Although his treatment was never scientifically refuted, Koch, who began oxidation studies in 1915 and used this treatment since 1918, was persecuted for sixteen years by the Medical Monopoly. He was finally driven out of the country, and died in Brazil in 1967. The FDA had started to harass him in 1920; the Wayne County Medical Society formed a "Cancer Committee" of doctors in 1923 who condemned Koch's treatment. His stimulation of cell oxidation treatment is by carefully planned diet which cleansed the system, yet this proven treatment is still denounced today by the cancer profiteers as "quackery". Koch tried to continue his work in Mexico and Brazil, but the FDA refused to abandon their pursuit. He was prosecuted in 1942 and 1946; the FDA finally obtained a permanent injunction against the Koch treatment in 1950. Several physicians who had successfully treated cancer with the Koch treatment were expelled from the medical society. It was still allowable to kill a patient but it was unforgivable to cure him.

Another independent physician, Dr. Max Gerson, discovered that a vegetarian diet, with raw fruits and vegetables, and no salt, cured migraine and lupus. He continued his studies until he found that detoxification of the body could cure cancer. In 1958, he published his findings in his book, A CANCER THERAPY, emphasizing a low fat diet, no salt and a minimum of protein. In 1964, he was invited to testify before a Senate Subcommittee, which produced a 227 page report, document number 89471. The copies of this report were never distributed by the Senate; it received no coverage in medical journals, and Dr. Gerson never received one cent from any charitable organization such as the American Cancer Society to either prove or disprove his findings, even though these groups claimed they were "researching" a cure of cancer.

Another famous case was that of Harry Hoxsey, who used a herbal treatment, based upon Indian remedies, for cancer for thirty-five years. In a well-publicized court battle, Hoxsey won a libel suit against Morris Fishbein; the good doctor was forced to admit under cross-examination that he, the most famous doctor in the United States, had never practiced medicine one day in his life.

Dr. Robert E. Lincoln discovered the bacteriophage method of conquering cancer, in which viruses parasitically attach and destroy specific bacteria. He received national attention when he cured the son of Senator Charles Tobey with this method. Tobey was astounded to learn that Dr. Lincoln has been expelled from the Massachusetts Medical Society because he was curing people of cancer. He conducted a Congressional investigation, in which his special counsel from the Department of Justice, Benedict Fitzgerald, wrote, April 28, 1953, "The alleged machinations of Dr. J. J. Moore (for the past ten years the treasurer of American Medical Association) could involve the AMA and others in a conspiracy of alarming proportions....behind and over all this is the weirdest conglomeration of corrupt motives, intrigues, selfishness, jealousy, obstruction and conspiracy I have ever seen. My investigation to date should convince this Committee that a conspiracy does exist to stop the free flow and use of drugs in interstate commerce which allegedly (have) solid therapeutic value. Public and private funds have been thrown around like confetti at a country fair to close up and destroy clinics, hospitals and science research laboratories which do not conform to the viewpoint of medical associations. How long will the American people take this?"

Thirty-five years, they are still taking it. The outcome of the Tobey hearings is instructive. Senator Tobey died suddenly of a heart attack, as happens in Washington when a politician treads on dangerous ground. He was succeeded on the Committee by Senator John Bricker of Ohio. Bricker, for many years, was considered to be a dedicated conservative by millions of Americans. In reality, he was the lawyer for a number of large drug manufacturers and bankers, the ultimate establishment figure. He promptly fired Special Counsel Benedict Fitzgerald; the Hearings were then closed down.

Dr. Robert Lincoln was bold enough to sue the Massachusetts Medical Society for libel; he also died before the case could come to trial.

Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, vice president of the University of Illinois, began to use a preparation which he called Krebiozen. He succeeded in curing cancer with it; the AMA promptly published a report on Krebiozen which ruled that it was "of no benefit". A 289 day trial resulted, in which Dr. Ivy was cleared of all counts against him. Dr. Peter de Marco, a graduate of Hahnemann Medical School, successfully treated over 800 patients with PVP, procaine polyvinylpyrrolidone; his license to practice medicine in New Jersey was revoked.

A favorite recommendation of the American Cancer Society is the "Pap" test for cancer, despite its many drawbacks. Insight magazine, January 11, 1988, criticized many diagnostic laboratories for doing sloppy work, quoting the Wall Street Journal of November 1987 that "Pap smears have a false negative rate of from 20-40%; a false negative means death by cancer". Stung by this exposure of a method which the ACS had frenetically promoted for many years, Dr Harmon J. Eyre, president of the American Cancer Society, called a joint press conference of the ACS, the AMA, and the NCI, to renew their joint recommendation that all women from 20 to 60 have an annual Pap smear. At this press conference reported by AP, January 20, 1988, Eyre was quoted, "A main reason for calling the press conference was an attempt to counter confusion about the value of the Pap test in light of recent publicity about the percentage of false negative results from some labs." Although he went on record with unqualified endorsements of the Pap tests, Eyre offered no answer to the problem of false negative reports or the terrible threat which it posed to many women.

Some women's groups are becoming alerted to the fact that the Medical Monopoly is needlessly condemning many women to death. The Washington Post noted, February 16, 1988, a report of a Women's Health Trial, in which 300 women demanded low fat tests in which fat in the diet would be reduced from 40% to 20%, the purpose being to diminish breast cancer. They asked for funding from the NCI, but the Board of Scientific counselors of NCI refused to advance any funding for the project. The women's spokesman pointed out that "NCI is committed to breast cancer control rather than prevention".

What would the most powerful woman in American medicine have said about this? Mary Lasker has been content to play the part of the gracious Lady Bountiful with the money her husband earned as the nation's most famous huckster. At the American Cancer Society's Science Writers Seminars, which are held each year in some exotic hotel during the harsh winter months, Science noted May 18, 1973, that these spring seminars, held annually since 1949, always are held in warm climates, free junkets for science editors at big circulation newspapers and magazines. Science pointed out that these seminars, which cost ACS about $25,000, generate about 300 favorable news stories and result in ACS raising about $85 million in extra donations. This is probably one of the best investments around. In 1957, novelist Han Suyin, wearing an exquisite fur coat, delivered an enthusiastic report to the Science writers about how much good the chemical manufacturers have done for the health of our citizens. In all fairness to Han, Love Canal had not been discovered in 1957. The seminar met recently (1973) at the fabulous Rio Rico Inn near Tucson, Arizona. Not only are all expenses paid for the complaisant writers, but an extra treat, a Happy Hour at the bar at the end of each "work day", makes certain that the journalists float in to dinner in a very jovial mood. The Happy Hour is paid for by the gracious Mary Lasker. Saturday Review noted April 10, 1965, the ACS had an unusually effective public relations department. The secret of public relations is to obtain free space in major publications, instead of buying advertising. The Lasker connection also ensures that major New York agencies such as McCann Erickson, prepare advertising campaigns for ACS at no charge.

It is ironic that Albert Lasker, the co-creator of the American Cancer Society as we know it, and its subsidiary creature, the National Cancer Institute, should have built much of his fortune on his promotion of cigarette smoking. After his death from cancer, the American Cancer Society reluctantly came to the conclusion that "smoking is bad for your health". The mounting death toll from lung cancer forced the cigarette companies to consider alternatives; one of these was filters. On January 1, 1954, Kent cigarettes released an ad to 80 newspapers that AMA tests had proved the Kent filters were the most efficient in removing cigarette tar. Because this "proof" was on a par with most other AMA claims, the AMA was compelled to protest to Lorillard, the manufacturer. Time magazine commented, April 12, 1954, "The usually soporific AMA barred advertisements for Kent cigarettes".

When the Surgeon General released his 1964 report on the harmful effects of cigarette smoking, it panicked the industry, even though it had long been heralded by previous studies. In June, 1954, Dr. Daniel Horn and Edward Cuyler Hammond presented a report to the AMA convention, linking smoking and lung cancer. Horn and Hammond headed the statistical department at the ACS. American Tobacco, one of Lasker's principal holdings, dropped five points in one day after this presentation. Hammond was a well-known epidemiologist who had served as a consultant to NIH, the U.S. Navy, USAF and the Brookhaven Lab. He was a vice president of ACS and director of its research. Although he had conducted extensive research on the effects of smoking, he steadfastly refused to share this material with other organizations. In 1971, he received an invitation to join a panel of scientists to discuss smoking; he refused, stating that it had been the policy of ACS since 1952 not to share data with other researchers. Current Biography reported in 1957 that Hammond smoked four packs of cigarettes a day; his wife smoked three packs a day. They both died of lung cancer.

Despite the ACS revelations, the tobacco interests, which were closely linked to the Rockefeller Medical Monopoly, fought a determined rear guard action against the lung cancer campaign. One of Washington's best connected lobbyists, Patricia Firestone Chatham, widow of Representative R. T. Chatham, the chairman of Chatham Mills textile firm, stalled the placement of the warning on cigarette packages, "Smoking May Be Dangerous To Your Health", for five years, from 1964 to 1969. She lives in a two million dollar mansion in Georgetown, the former James Forrestal home.

The furor over lung cancer and smoking ignores a pertinent fact, that primitive tribes have been smoking tobacco for thousands of years, with no disagreeable after effects. In Virginia, Indians were smoking tobacco when Captain John Smith landed at Jamestown. Dr. Richard Passey, a researcher at London's Chester Beattie Research Institute, conducted twenty years of research on the tobacco problem. He found no significant link between the traditionally air dried tobacco and lung cancer. However, the American and English tobacco industries, which are dominated by the Rothschilds, use sugar in their tobacco, for a sweetened, sugar dried effect. England uses 17% sugar, the United States 10%. England has the highest lung cancer rate in the world. Dr. Passey concluded that the addition of sugar to tobacco creates a carcinogenic substance in the nicotine tar; in air dried tobacco, this carcinogen is not activated. He found no resulting lung cancer in the Soviet Union, China or Taiwan, all of which produce air-dried tobacco. [H: I suggest you all read and reread Dr. Coleman's factual writing regarding cigarettes and remember that opium is utilized in the process and infiltrated into the paper and filters--thus addicting any smoker to the product].

Esquire magazine featured a lengthy article on the work of the Janker Clinic in Bonn, Germany, finding that this clinic has treated 76,000 cancer cases since 1936, with full or partial remission in 70% of their patients. The Esquire reporter was astounded to learn that "the National Cancer Institute refuses to use Janker Clinic isophosphamide, A. Mulsin, Wobe enzymes and other successful Janker techniques because they refused to use sufficient dosage. The American Cancer Society is even more rigid. It prides itself on keeping the Janker techniques out of the United States". The Esquire reporter went on to complain that "The American Cancer Society has become a major part of the problem. It eschews sponsorship of chemical and research innovation and instead goes in for propaganda (cigarettes are harmful, the Seven Danger Signals, celebrity radio and TV spots) and it virtually condemns and suppresses unorthodox methods which, incidentally, it does not even trouble itself to investigate thoroughly".

The reporter did not know that the American Cancer Society has a vested interest in the established forms of cancer treatment; for instance, it holds a fifty per cent ownership of the patent rights of 5 FU, (5 fluorouracil), one of the toxic drugs now in vogue as an "acceptable" medication for cancer. 5 FU and a later development 5-4-FU, are produced by Hoffman LaRoche Laboratories.

The Knight Ridder News Service reported in 1978 that the ACS refused to take a position on suspected pesticides which caused cancer. The ACS board and its allied organization, Sloan Kettering, have many members who are heads of the largest chemical firms in the United States. The war against pollution will win no adherents there. ACS was asked to take a position on other dangerous substances, such as Red Dye #2, the fire-retardant TRIS, used in children's clothing (it has since been banned), and forms of synthetic estrogen. Yet ACS again refused to state its position on these substances. To counter its baneful influence, the Committee for Freedom of Choice in Medicine planned to file an action in 1984 before the Permanent Committee on Human Rights at the United Nations, charging that the American medical establishment was in violation of the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights and the International Human Rights Agreement of 1966. Its prepared statement noted that "Americans have been needlessly slaughtered and criminalized because a host of useful products, medicine and metabolic nutritional approaches in medicine have been crushed by vested interests". The Committee termed the present situation "a Medigate".

The failure to reduce the death rate from cancer is a grim indictment of the insurmountable obstacles which the ACS has placed in the path of a viable approach to this problem. John Bailar of the Harvard School of Public Health, addressing the American Association for the Advancement of Science in 1986-7, pointed out that "The government's fifteen year old national cancer program has not lowered the death rate for major forms of cancer and should therefore be considered a failure. It has not produced the results it was supposed to produce." Bailer was well qualified to make this observation; he had been editor of the Journal for NCI for twenty-five years. He was supported by a fellow member of the faculty of the School of Public Health, Dr. John Cairns, who reported that, "In the past twenty years, cancer has increased; there have been no significant gains against cancer since the 1950's".

Dr. Hardin James addressed the ACS Panel in 1969. A professor of medical physics at the University of California at Berkely, he stated that his studies had proven conclusively that untreated cancer victims actually live up to four times longer than treated individuals. "For a typical type of cancer, people who refused treatment live an average of twelve and a half years. Those who accepted surgery and other kinds of treatment lived an average of only three years. I attribute this to the traumatic effect of surgery on the body's natural defense mechanism. The body has a natural type of defense against every type of cancer".

In February, 1988, the National Cancer Institute released its definitive report, summarizing the "war against cancer". It reported that over the past thirty-five years, both the overall incidence and death rates from cancer have increased, despite "advances in detection and treatment". Washington Post, February 9, 1988. The problem may be that, just as in other wars we have engaged in the twentieth century, too many of those "on our side" are actually working for the enemy.

As the reader may have already noticed, there is an ongoing medical conspiracy aimed at maintaining ambiguity and spreading misinformation about health issues--in this case, cancer--while simultaneously turning it into a highly lucrative business at the expense of those affected by these diseases. In hospitals, patients are ripped off and fleeced--at best, for receiving no treatment, or at worst, for having their condition worsened. In any case, most of the time, they suffer systematic poisoning due to the very nature of the medications in use.

The Virus Con--A Lethal Game !

What Is A Virus ?

Now let's take a look at one of the main factors of modern health and disease--the virus. What is a virus? "Viruses are complex organic substances that have some living and some nonliving characteristics.

They are made of nucleic acids and proteins. Nucleic acid is the center or core of a virus. A coat of protein surrounds the core. Viruses can grow and reproduce only inside living cells. Yet, crystals of viruses taken from cells can be stored in bottles for many years. These crystals do not grow and produce more viruses until they are inside living cells again. Inside a cell, a virus may take control and change the normal activities of the cell. In effect, the virus becomes the 'master' and the cell becomes a 'slave'" (p. 236, Focus on Life Science, by Charles H. Heimler, Charles E. Merrill Publishing; a standard school textbook).

In plain, simple language, perhaps too simple for the "educated", viruses are crystals of nucleic acid in a protein coat. The definition of virus in the glossary of Essentials of Microbiology, Jaime S. Colomé & Raúl J. Cano, is: "Virus--Protein-covered nucleic acids that infect all types of cells." Wait a minute, I want to know what a virus IS, not what a virus DOES. A virus IS NUCLEIC ACID. Period. Viruses have no reproductive system, yet all they do is reproduce. A virus is a crystalline chemical, as is table salt. Is table salt alive? Are viruses alive? How can that be?

Viruses (Arnold J. Levine, Scientific American Library, p. 2) says that viruses are like pieces of computer tape that contain part of a computer program, and says "...all viruses can duplicate themselves only inside cells, because they require significant contributions from their hosts."

On page 8, it says the first virus discovered was a crystal from tobacco. "In truth, the ability to form a crystal simply reflects the structural uniformity or symmetry of all the viruses in a population...." Then the book continues, "Almost all viruses are composed of two parts: a nucleic-acid core containing the genetic information and, surrounding and protecting this core, a coat built from repeating protein subunits....A virus's genetic information may be encoded in deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA), as it is for all non-viral living organisms, or in some viruses it may be encoded in ribonucleic acid (RNA)....All plant viruses are RNA viruses....In the simplest cases, the DNA or RNA of a virus is surrounded by proteins." It points out that the simplest viruses consist only of genetic codes (DNA or RNA) enclosed in a protein coat.

Viruses are marvelous little beasts. They have no reproductive systems, yet all they do is reproduce. They have no metabolic systems (they don't eat anything). They are not alive at all, yet they are described as "virulent", "infectious", "deadly", they "inject themselves" into cells, doctors talk about "live-virus vaccine" and "killed-virus vaccine", yet, when forced to, they admit that viruses have no life.

Science News, Vol. 140, Dec. 14, 1991, said (under the heading, "Instant virus: Just add RNA"): "Viruses are such primitive things that many scientists don't consider them alive. They cannot reproduce on their own." Funk & Wagnalls' article on virus says "Like living organisms, the virus has the power of self- duplication, but reproduction occurs only within susceptible living cells." Same as saying, "I can do it all by myself as long as you help me." The article also says "As early as 1935 biochemical research established that in the extracellular state the virus is metabolically inert, behaving like a chemical rather than a living organism....it may be preserved outside the cell indefinitely "

Look up "life" in the dictionary. My dictionary says "the condition that distinguishes animals and plants from inorganic objects and dead organisms, being manifested by growth through metabolism, reproduction, and the power of adaptation to environment through changes originating internally."

According to the normal definitions of life taught in most schools, life is the metabolic processes of a living thing. Viruses are "metabolically inert". VIRUSES ARE NOT ALIVE. Mean little demons, to be so dead, aren't they? What are viruses? They are genetic material, enclosed in a protein coat. Outside the cell, they dry out and become crystals. Encyclopedia Britannica, under "Viruses", says: "Viruses are self-reproducing agents, smaller than the microscopically visible bacteria, that multiply only within living susceptible cells and are responsible for a wide range of infectious diseases." Think about these dead crystals, with no reproductive systems, that are "self-reproducing", yet they reproduce "only within living...cells. "

Later in the article it says, "All the viruses contain their essential genetic material in the form of nucleoprotein, which is a combination of nucleic acid and protein." And it says a curious thing: "The essential features are the disappearance of virus as such as soon as infection is initiated..."

Infection is when this dead crystal organized into a genetic code injects itself into a living cell. And then it disappears! A little study reveals that it disappears because it is exactly like the cells own genetic material and it is impossible to tell the difference.

This same Britannica article also says: "There are now many instances where an apparently normal plant or bacterium can be shown to carry a virus indefinitely. The multiplication of the virus keeps pace with the multiplication of host cells in so precise a fashion that some form of mutual coordination must be postulated [how does a cell 'mutually coordinate' with something dead?].

"It can be argued that this must mean that a virus is essentially made of host material, though capable of being set free; or alternatively that a free parasitic organism can become so integrated with its host that it becomes incorporated into its structure."

Hmmm, this dead thing is made from its living host cell, and when it magically injects itself into the cell, it disappears by becoming part of the cell? Does something sound fishy to you?

Sure enough, farther down in the article, it says: "Viruses, when they enter a cell, lose all identity except that of the chemical substance, nucleic acid....it has proved possible to infect cells by means of nucleic acid alone....the natural history of a virus is determined by the fundamental requirement that multiplication can take place only within the living cells of a susceptible host."

The Austin American Statesman, Friday, 13 December 1991: "Polio virus is made in test tube", by Gina Kolata, New York Times Service. NEW YORK--Scientists have synthesized polio virus in the test tube, the first time that an entire virus has been created outside of living cells. The feat, accomplished by biologists at the State University of New York at Stony Brook and published today in Science magazine, also underscores the fuzzy border between living things and chemicals. They gently extracted a soup of the proteins from human cells, then dropped into it strands of the genetic material of the polio virus. After five or more hours, complete, assembled polio viruses appeared in the mixture" (p. A11). The article states the virus was created "outside of living cells" by dropping already created polio virus into a "soup of the proteins from human cells". Hey, this rock is a dollar bill, trust me. It doesn't make sense to me, but then, not much of what they say makes sense to me.

"'I think it's fantastically important,' said Dr. Donald Summers, a molecular virologist at the University of Utah. 'This is an amazing finding. It's a real first for molecular biology.' Dr. Vincent Racaniello of Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons said, 'It's a seminal discovery, no doubt about it.'"

"Amazing". "Fantastic". Indeed. A fantasy is right.

Look at that again, this was the first time that viruses were created outside of cells, right? How was this done? It was done by making a "soup. from human cells." How did the viruses get into this cell/no-cell soup? By dropping "into it strands of the genetic material of polio virus". What are viruses? They are genetic material. The article makes it plain: "In the Stony Brook experiment, only human cell components and the virus' genetic material were used." Oh, I see, you create a virus by using a virus to start with, and you do it outside of cells by doing it inside of cells. Can you see that these stories are NUTS?

What Is A Gene ?

"The nucleus is the control center of the cell. It controls both the chemical reactions that occur in the cell and reproduction of the cell. Briefly, the nucleus contains large quantities of deoxyribonucleic acid, which we have called genes for many years. The genes determine the characteristics of the protein enzymes of the cytoplasm, and in this way control cytoplasmic activities. To control reproduction, the genes first reproduce themselves, and after this is accomplished the cell splits by a special process called mitosis to form two daughter cells, each of which receives one of the two sets of genes" (from pages 15, 16 of Basic Human Physiology: Normal Function and Mechanisms of Disease by Arthur C. Guyton, M.D., W. B. Saunders Company, 1977).

Let's boil down the bare bones answer from what was just said--genes are nucleic acid. Period. Got that? If you look under "genes" in the index, it says "see DNA". DO NOT MISS THIS POINT--GENES ARE NUCLEIC ACID. AND VIRUSES ARE NUCLEIC ACID.

What Is Nucleic Acid ?

Nucleic acids are molecules of acids arranged around the nucleus of the cell, that's why they are called nucleic acids. One type of acid is called deoxy-ribo-nucleic acid, abbreviated DNA. The other is called ribo-nucleic acid, or RNA. These acids (when dried they become crystals) consist of small parts called nucleotides. The nucleotides are adenine (A), cytosine (C), guanine (G), uracil (U), and thymine (T). The A, C, G, and T nucleotides are what make up the "steps" or "cross-bars" of the DNA double-helix "ladder" of genes. In DNA, the strands ("steps") connect in binary pairs, A to T and G to C.

The T is replaced by U in RNA. In RNA molecules, G - C and A - U are the paired "steps" on the gene ladder.

The genes of animals and humans are DNA molecules, although the cell also uses RNA to promote chemical reactions and transport of materials. DNA is found in the nucleus of the cell, RNA is found in the cytoplasm surrounding the nucleus.

If you are awake and thinking and following me so far, you will have noticed that viruses are pieces of RNA and DNA. And the genetic code, the genes, of living things are pieces of RNA and DNA.

So, how do you tell the difference between a virus and a gene?

Ah, Ha! You can't. THEY ARE THE SAME THING, called two different names by the witch doctors.

Think maybe there is something fishy going on here?

It probably has not sunk in yet, so let's look some more.

"If proteins are the principal stuff of life, the nucleic acids are its blueprints--the molecules on which the Secret of Life, if we may speak of such a thing, is written....There are two kinds of nucleic acid: DNA, short for deoxyribonucleic acid, and RNA, ribonucleic acid. DNA is always found in the nucleus of the cell, RNA mainly in the cytoplasm outside the nucleus" ("Recombinant DNA", Scientific American, 1957, p. 1). On page 8, it says "...when a bacterial virus infects a bacterium, it is the virus's DNA (not its protein) that enters the bacterial cell, and much of this DNA turns up in the progeny virus produced in the cell. Taking all the evidence together, it is difficult to resist the conclusion that DNA is genetic material. If that is the case, our problem is to learn how DNA reproduces itself." Note that it says DNA is genetic material.

"Viruses consist of a single type of nucleic acid (DNA or RNA) within a protein coat called a capsid. The nucleic acid and the capsid are referred to as the nucleocapsid. The nucleic acids contain the information for making the proteins found in the viral coat as well as many of the enzymes required to invade the host and to replicate the virus's nucleic acid. Some viruses are covered by a membrane, often called the envelope. The term virion is used to describe the complete viral particle, including the nucleocapsid and any envelope it may have. None of the viruses is able to replicate in the absence of host cells. Thus, all the viruses are obligate parasites of cellular organisms" (p. 254, Essentials of Microbiology by Raúl J. Cano and Jaime S. Colomé).

Don't let the big words throw you, a virus is a molecule of DNA or RNA. Period. Sometimes its coat changes, but that is beside our point. A gene is a molecule of DNA or RNA. Period. There is no (apparent) difference between a gene and a virus, except if it is a "bad" gene we call it a virus.

A virus is a crystal of acid. Is it any wonder that it "cannot live outside the cell"? A virus is DEAD. It always was, it always is, and forevermore, it is DEAD, by all the rules in the book. A virus by itself is NEVER ALIVE. How can an acid be alive? How can a crystal be alive? (Don't jump to conclusions yet, there is more to this story!) If it is alive, can't you see that there MUST BE something more going on here? Can it be that the rules of the book are WRONG?

By all the normal rules of what is life, a virus is not and cannot be alive. It has no metabolism. It has no digestive system. It has no reproductive system. It has no system of mobility, it has no intelligence. It is plainly and simply a crystal of acid. "Viruses are such primitive things that many scientists don't consider them alive" (Science News, Vol. 140, December 14, 1991, article "Instant virus: Just add RNA"). Keep that thought in mind as we continue to look at this subject.

"There are certain entities, in fact, such as the viruses, about which biologists have had recurrent doubts as to whether they should be admitted into the category of truly 'living' organisms" (The Explosion of Science--From Molecules To Man, edited by J. Z. Young and Tom Margerison, p. 34).

"One class of entities which are less structurally complex than the cell is the viruses. Whether, however, they are 'living', and thus qualify as the 'simplest' of all living things, is another matter.... The question as to whether viruses are truly 'living' or not has, in its time, been a famous biological controversy" (ibid, p. 40). And on the next page: "Experiment, however, shows that not only is a virus quite incapable of growing outside a living cell, but exhaustive tests fail to reveal any genuine indigenous metabolic activity in it, when it is in the 'free' form. The extracellular virus is biochemically an inert particle, devoid of all synthetic or energy-releasing activity." That is just a fancy way of saying that, by normal definition, IT IS DEAD. The "simple cell", however, is ENORMOUSLY active and complex and very much alive.

The book Viruses, by Arnold J. Levine, Scientific American Library, asks: "Are Viruses Alive?" on page 22, but then does not answer the question. It says "Volumes have been written to elucidate the properties of a living thing, but consensus has been rare in these debates."

This book also says: "When, in 1935, Wendell Stanley succeeded in obtaining a crystalline form of the tobacco mosaic virus, this form was seen by some scientists as filling the gap between the living world of reproducing viruses and the chemical or nonliving world of molecules and crystals" (p. 8).

You have been so brainwashed that you will probably still find what I am saying hard to follow. Look at it this way. If you have a computer, you probably have a piece of plastic called a computer disk. We say that the computer disk controls the computer. IT DOES NOT. It is simply a piece of plastic with a magnetic coating on it, it cannot DO anything, except just BE. The computer does all the "doing". A higher intelligence arranges the magnetic coating on the disk in a certain way, and the computer is designed to do certain things based on how the magnetic coating is arranged.

Or look at it this way: Saying a disk controls the computer, or saying a virus "forces" the cell to do anything, is like saying this piece of paper is alive, it takes control of you, it forces you to read and act upon it. NOT SO.

On CNN on TV, I saw a program which showed the "AIDS virus" "injecting itself into a cell". Right in front of our eyes, we were told the virus was injecting itself into the cell, and the screen, using a scene from an electron microscope, showed this mean little beastie crawling right into this big white wall (which we were told was the cell). How, exactly, does a piece of acid do that?

Well, see this pencil on my desk (let's pretend). Now watch. The pencil is forcing my hand to move. It makes my hand open up and grab it. It forces my hand to draw skulls and crossbones on a piece of paper. This must be a very evil pencil. In fact, this pencil must be a living demon!

Just because I say it, is that what is really going on?

The encyclopedias and textbooks admit that viruses have no life outside the cell. They have no digestive system, no reproductive system. They can be turned into crystals, and the crystals can be turned back into "viruses". Some books even say that scientists at first thought they had found the basis of life, because here was something dead that could come alive. What the medical textbooks teach is that the virus injects itself into a cell (a virus is about one billionth the size of a cell), becomes alive and takes control of the cell, forcing the cell to reproduce viruses until the cell explodes. That is like saying a flea bites a horse's rump and takes over control of the horse and forces the horse to manufacture fleas! Even that is not a good analogy because the flea is at least alive and has some intelligence and has its own reproductive system, while the virus has no life and no intelligence and no reproductive system. Viruses are not alive, UNLESS THERE IS MORE GOING ON THAN MEETS THE EYE!

Is that possible? Let me ask you this--are cells alive? You will probably answer, yes, of course.

So let me ask it again. Are the cells in that beefsteak you had for dinner alive? Well, no, you say, not any more.

What is the difference between a living cell and a dead cell?

There is no difference at all. Except, we all know, there is a very BIG difference, but the difference is NOT CHEMICAL, NOT PHYSICAL, not something you can measure or weigh. We might say the difference is electrical, but it is not really electrical, the difference is that mysterious thing we call LIFE.

In short, as you've probably figured out, "Virus," "Gene," and "Nucleic Acid" are just different terms used to describe the same thing. In other words, yet another confusion that's part of the medical conspiracy. Take the whole thing, break it down into as many sections as possible, give them different names and definitions, and you can surely build a highly lucrative and deadly manipulative scheme venture around it all. Because humans are quick to swallow anything-- and with disconcerting ease.

Frequency And The Wave

In 1978 I received a packet of communist literature from the Soviet distributor, Northern Book House, Box 1000, Gravenhurst, Ontario, Canada. At the time, I considered the material as worthless nonsense garbage. Later, as I learned more and reviewed it, I was shocked. They talked about getting energy out of the vacuum and talked about humans and animals responding to "electromagnetic waves".

To begin to understand the wave is to begin to understand the method of creation.

The wave is the mechanism of transferring zero-point energy from the vacuum (commonly called ether) into matter and force.

All energy is expressed in motion. All motion is expressed in waves. The wave is too complicated to describe simply, but let's start simply and begin to understand.

The waves we are most familiar with are waves caused when we toss a pebble in the water, or sound waves in the air from vibrations.

Waves consists of a series of crests and troughs of varying pressure. It can be said that waves divide a medium by concentrating it and decentrating it at the same time (compression and rarefaction). For instance, a wave in the atmosphere is called a "front" by the weathermen, which concentrates or compresses air in front of it (a "high pressure" area), and decentrates or expands air behind it (a "low pressure" area). Since the high pressure area moves into the low pressure area, the weathermen look at this oppositely as to the "front" and "back", but these terms are relative to your viewpoint.

Physicists are learning that what we call empty space, the vacuum, or ether, etc., actually is the source of waves which divide the vacuum into sexed pairs of concentrated and decentrated waves. These waves, vibrating at various frequencies and interference patterns and forming holograms (or formed from holograms), are the source of all that we call reality, all that we call existence.

Wavelength And Specific Frequencies

What is wavelength? Wavelength is the distance between any point of one wave to the corresponding point of the next wave.

The number of waves along a certain distance in a certain period of time is called the frequency, and is generally measured as cycles per second.

The term now used to express "cycles per second" is called "Hertz". One Hertz equals one cycle per second, 60 Hertz is 60 cycles per second.

The human ear responds to sounds in the frequency range of approximately 20 Hertz to 15,000 Hertz, so this is called the sound frequency range.

Radio waves are from 15,000 Hertz (abbreviated Hz) to about 1,000,000,000,000 Hz.

Heat waves are from 1,000,000,000,000 Hz to 400,000,000,000,000 Hz.

Light waves are from 400,000,000,000,000 to 750,000,000,000,000 Hz.

The top speed of sound depends on the material through which it travels, but does not exceed about 20,000 feet per second, or about 6,097.56 meters per second.

Sound travels through copper at 10,800 feet per second; iron at 17,390 fps.; brick at 11,980 fps; glass at 16,410 fps; oak at 12,620 fps; pine at 10,900 fps; water at 4,794 fps; air at 1,129 fps; and does not travel through a vacuum.

The top speed of light is given as about 186,000 miles per second, or 300,000,000 meters per second. This is the standard teaching. In higher understanding, the speed of light is variable and in ultimate truth the limit is not defined correctly (light does not travel), but we shall have more on this later.

The formula for wavelength is wavelength in meters per second equals speed in meters per second divided by frequency in Hertz.

The textbooks generally do not deal with frequencies below 30 cycles per second. This information has been purposely repressed by "the government".

Nikola Tesla was the genius who gave us alternating current and who [actually, originally] invented radio, TV, radar, and much more. He is also the one who decided that the standards for our household alternating current would be 120 volts and 60 cycles per second. He decided this after much experimentation with voltages and frequencies.

Tesla learned that the natural resonant frequency of the Earth is about 10 cycles per second.

Frequencies of 8 - 20 Hz are considered the ELF range (Extremely Low Frequency).

Frequencies of 20 - 40 Hz are considered VLF (Very Low Frequency).

Frequencies of 40 - 100 Hz are considered LF (Low Frequency).

Some Interesting Frequencies

Tesla determined that the LF frequency range of 40 - 100 is safe to humans, so he set our standard household current frequency at 60 cycles per second.

He determined that the ELF range of 8 - 20 cycles per second is harmful and can be painful to humans. A frequency of 16 cycles per second produces a visual flicker-fusion that upsets people.

A resonant frequency of 6.66 cycles per second is damaging to humans and to the planet. In articles about Tesla there is mention that he could build a "black box" that could destroy buildings, cause earthquakes and even split the Earth in two. The formerly restricted/classified frequency for this is 6.66 Hz! Soviet scientists began an experiment with this frequency on October 14, 1976. Andrija Puharich said of this experiment: "What happened had such a disastrous effect on the planetary well-being, that even the Soviet scientists were frightened. Enormous standing waves of electromagnetic energy formed in the atmosphere above the planet extending from the Russo-Finnish region to the reciprocal pole in the Pacific east of New Zealand. These standing waves, thousand of miles long, refused to damp out, even after the Soviet TMT [Tesla Magnifying Transmitter] was switched off. The planetary electromagnetic bell just went on ringing with unprecedented resonance. Normally when the driving oscillator is switched off, the resonant waves damp out and cease shortly. Thoroughly alarmed, the Soviet scientists tried to break up and dampen the resonance with intense high-powered bursts of ultra-high frequency radiation--all to no avail. The un-damped resonance of the planetary waves had all the dangerous potential of a catastrophic event, such as "splitting the planet in two like an apple." After a few months, the standing waves did damp out, but not until some unusual never-before-seen events had occurred.

Puharich then explained that one of the events was the creation of the worst winter in the U.S. in over 100 years, drought, forest fires, etc. Passengers in airplanes were getting sick (from unusual ozone), etc. The winter of 1977-1978 was the worst since 1883 in the northeast U.S, and the winter of 1978-1979 was the worst in recorded history in the Midwest U.S. Jeremy Campbell published an article in the London Evening Standard, April 13, 1977, entitled "Are the Russians Changing our Weather?"

A frequency of 6 Hz produces dizziness, nausea, and a cholinergic effect on the parasympathetic nervous system (in plain language, a sudden massive diarrhea). Margaret Cheney, in Tesla: Man Out Of Time told about how Mark Twain learned this:

"He [Tesla] led his guests to the corner where a strange platform was mounted on rubber padding. When he flipped a switch, it began to vibrate rapidly and silently.

"Twain stepped forward, eager. 'Let me try it, Tesla. Please.'

"'No, no. It needs work.'

"'Please.'

"Tesla chuckled. 'All right, Mark, but don't stay on too long. Come off when I give you the word.' He called to an attendant to throw the switch.

"Twain, in his usual white suit and black string tie, found himself humming and vibrating on the platform like a gigantic bumblebee. He was delighted. He whooped and waved his arms. The others watched in amusement.

"After a time the inventor said, 'All right, Mark. You've had enough. Come down now.'

"'Not by a jugful,' said the humorist. 'I am enjoying this.'

"'But seriously, you had better come down,' insisted Tesla. 'Believe me, it is best that you do so.'

"Twain only laughed. 'You couldn't get me off this with a derrick.'

"The words were scarcely out of his mouth when his expression froze. He lurched stiffly toward the edge of the platform, frantically waving at Tesla to stop it.

"'Quick, Tesla. Where is it?'

"The inventor helped him down with a smile and propelled him in the direction of the rest room. The laxative effect of the vibrator was well known to him and his assistants."

The electrical charge of the atmosphere increases about 100 volts for every meter [of height], thus placing the Earth/ionosphere potential difference at hundreds of millions of volts (Earth negative ground, ionosphere positive). This creates a resonating capacitor (and when scientists fool with it, it also creates "sprites"). The 7.03 Hz frequency is the resonant cavity frequency of the Earth-air-ionosphere condenser/capacitor. The frequency of Earth by itself was determined by Tesla to be 6.67 Hz. This looks to me like it might more precisely be 6.666--a curious number, don't you think?

The Earth's natural oscillating magnetic field frequency is 7.83 Hz (usually rounded off to 8 Hz). Thus, the natural heartbeat of the Earth is considered to be 8 Hz, discovered by Tesla in 1895. In 1960, Balser and Wagner (Nature, Vol. 188, No. 4751, 1961) published their findings that showed that the Earth-cavity was resonant at 8 Hz. More precise studies done by M.J. Rycroft showed that the ELF spectrum had its fundamental at 7.8 ± 0.2 Hz (Radio Science, Journal of Research, NBS/USNC - URSI, Vol. 69D, No. 8, Aug. 1965, pp. 1071-1081, article entitled "Resonances of the Earth-Ionosphere Cavity observed at Cambridge, England"). None of the authors mentioned Tesla. Tesla was at least 65 years ahead of these authors. By the way, on September 13, 1898, at the Eighth Annual Meeting of the American Electro-Therapeutic Association (whatever happened to them?), Buffalo, New York, Tesla presented a paper he wrote called "High Frequency Oscillators for Electro-Therapeutic and other Purposes". Doctors will tell you frequency-based healing is quackery. The medical profession is a profession of liars and killers.

The 7.8 Hz resonance has been attributed to a man named Schumann and called the Schumann resonance, and is considered to be a constant in physics. Global military communications were developed on this frequency. However, recent reports (from Norwegian and Russian researchers) say the Earth is rising in frequency and the Schumann resonance is now 8.6 Hz, and climbing! At the same time, the Earth's magnetic field strength is declining.

Tesla noticed that the Earth and the ionosphere formed the two plates of a giant capacitor, with a resonating cavity peak at 8 Hz (7.83 Hz). He then tuned a secondary coil in resonance with the two resonant cavities of the Earth by creating a 20,700 Hz wave and pulsing (chopping) it so that the pulses hit the Earth 6 times per second. The Earth began to "ring like a bell". The sound would bounce back in 108 minutes. By keeping this up, he discovered the sonic stationary wave of the Earth. An electromagnetic wave was also created which traveled faster than the speed of light through the Earth (471,240 kilometers per second) and these electromagnetic waves became supraluminal and superconducting! He said that if he kept this up for two weeks, he could "split the Earth in two like a sliced apple"! (The World Today, Vol. XXI, No. 8, February 1912, pp. 718-722, "Nikola Tesla, Dreamer", by Allan L. Benson.)

The Soviets recreated this experiment on October 14, 1976. They started transmitting extremely powerful pulses at 6.66 cycles per second (6.66 Hz) and created tremendous standing waves thousands of miles long that became extremely frightening to them as they got out of their control. They created catastrophic weather and were afraid they might "split the Earth like an apple". They tried for months to shut it down, until it finally dampened down.

Normal brain frequencies are 8.6 Hz to 11.3 Hz. The brain wave Alpha frequency is 8 Hz (actual peak is 7.81 to 7.83 Hz). This is a healthful biological frequency and produces feelings of well being.

Magnetic pulse frequencies in the range of 7 to 10 Hz can protect the individual from the harmful ELF magnetic waves. With training, the human brain can generate frequencies in this range.

A single frequency in the range of 3 to 5 Hz can produce cancer.

Another range of frequencies harmful to humans is 10.8 Hz to 11 Hz, being transmitted on carriers by the Russian "Woodpecker" transmissions. NASA's Space Shuttle program has announced "experiments" sending pulse frequencies at 10 Hz or thereabouts. For instance the 10/3/94 Aviation Week & Space Technology magazine reported that the Discovery mission also involved two Lockheed Electra aircraft which, during the period Sept. 16-17, flew over part of Discovery's orbit, each firing its own on-board laser at the Earth, "pulsed at 10 Hz, through quartz windows" on the aircraft. When the Space Shuttle launches, there is usually at least one other launch somewhere, often from Guyana, which is involved with it--does the term "phase conjugate mirrors" fit in here? They are doing weather control and mind control and other "Star Wars"-type games.

How Do Viruses Really Work ?

What are being called viruses are simply pieces of genetic material. Left alone, they are normally no problem to the body. But "messed up" by drugs, or by radiation, they supply wrong information to the cells and create problems, just as a wrong or doctored computer program messes up what the computer is supposed to do. Computer "viruses" do not really take control of the computer, we just look at it that way. Viruses do not really take control of cells, we just look at it that way. A computer disk has no intelligence of its own, except the intelligence of the programmer that is stored on the disk. The virus has no intelligence of its own, except for the intelligence of the virus creator/programmer. Dr. Chiang Kanzen, credited with discovering "biomicrowave communications" (the Chiang Scientific Foundation and Chiang Institute are named after him), said that DNA is only a "cassette" with recorded information, whose actual material carriers are bioelectromagnetic signals. "In other words, the electromagnetic field and DNA together make up COMBINED GENETIC MATERIAL, which exists in two forms: a passive (DNA) and an active (bioelectromagnetic field) form. The passive form preserves the genetic code, the active (transmitting) form is able to modify it." The bioelectromagnetic field (the material carrier of energy and information) exists in both the microwave and infra-red range of frequencies, and the bio-EM fields act by moving photons.

The government black budget "Starwars" programs and medical programs are reprogramming the genetic codes in the pieces of genetic material and calling them viruses, and, yes, in that case, they do definitely cause disease and genetic mutations.

How Can Viral Diseases Be Cured ?

You should know by now that drugs and radiation create defective pieces of genetic codes which we call viruses. The solution to the problem is to stop the intake of drugs and all harmful elements, and to stop being irradiated. We cannot always do that, so we need to keep the body in top condition to allow it to counter the problems. Since genes are being electromagnetically programmed by our enemies, we need to be able to counter that programming, which can also be done electromagnetically (in which I am including light waves and all forms of helpful frequency).

There is no single AIDS virus, ALL viruses (harmful genetic material) are AIDS viruses, all harm the body's immune system (if they are harmful at all--many are harmless and are scapegoats for the drug dealers). And, yes, these viruses can and are being programmed/created from a distance by pulse beam systems: "Yes, the retrovirus can be manipulated by pulsed beam systems" (Hatonn, Phoenix Journal #65, p. 173).

The MIND is a pulse beam generator and can CREATE, OR HEAL viruses. However, we generally do not know how, so we can do it by using machines. You can search the field of radionics for more information.

In 1977, Louis Kervran won the Nobel Prize for showing that plants and animals (his main experiments were with chickens) use "scalar wave" type technology to transmute elements, for instance turning potassium into calcium. This is impossible according to the "laws" of physics currently taught in schools. Lead cannot be turned into gold, we are told, except now by atomic bombardment in nuclear reactors. In fact, living beings do this "alchemy" routinely. The ruling Elite do not want you "common folk" to have this type of knowledge, as it will undermine their control over you. So the "laws" they teach are incomplete or WRONG. Kervran wrote a dissertation (in French, I believe) on "biological transmutations" and a translation was republished in CONTACT (August 29 and September 5, 12, & 19, 1995).

Lies, deception, concealment, disinformation, and mind control form the fabric of the game and the stakes in this ailing world from its children wallowing in apathy and indolence--direct effects of spiritual and, by extension, intellectual laziness--which has become the default way of living.

Under these conditions, to undermine the health conditions of entire populations becomes indeed all too easy. And in doing so, you can be certain of leading them to the destruction of their own civilization, since mental health is the absolutely essential, inescapable, prerequisite for the healthy functioning of a human species. Given that human biology functions as an interconnected whole, even the slightest dysfunction along the metabolic chain affects the entire system, and this prolonged situation naturally leads to the deterioration or decline of mental function, which determines the harmony or disharmony of the whole. The world today has reached this point.

Now that the scourge posed by the medical profession--and certainly by modern medicine--has been established a little more clearly thanks to the revelations in the preceding articles, the reader will be able, with a more open mind, to take a much broader view of the discussion that follows and the proposals made for a literal overhaul--a total reversal of the healthcare sector--in the interest of the dignity of human beings and all living creatures in general.

III

Overview of the Current Health Care System

In the present state of medical practice in human societies, various methods are in use in the different branches of so-called modern medicine.

An almost exhaustive list of the most common specialties is as follows.

Allergology or Immunology

Allergology is a functional medical specialty dealing with diseases caused by a specific abnormal response of the body to its normally well-tolerated environment.

Andrology-Gynecology-Obstetrics

Andrology is the medical specialty that deals with male health, particularly with problems of the male reproductive system and urological problems specific to male individuals.

Gynecology deals with the medical aspects of women, regardless of age, and with diseases affecting the female reproductive system: vulva, vagina, uterus, fallopian tubes and ovaries. These diseases can be medical (treated by medication) or surgical (treated by surgery). The gynecologist is therefore a medical-surgical specialty.

Obstetrics is concerned with the pregnant woman and her unborn child. The obstetrician is therefore in charge of two patients, and must master a certain number of complex techniques: medicine and surgery of the woman, but also, often, ultrasound, for the prenatal diagnosis of certain diseases of the fetus.

Cardiology

Cardiology is a branch of medicine that deals with disorders of the heart and parts of the circulatory system.

Surgery-Anesthesiology

Surgery is the part of therapeutics that involves internal operations or external maneuvers on tissues, especially by incision and suture.

In this branch are grouped the different kinds of specialties developed such as cardiac surgery; cosmetic, plastic and reconstructive surgery; general surgery, maxillofacial surgery, pediatric surgery, thoracic surgery, vascular surgery; neurosurgery.

Anesthesia-intensive care is the branch of medicine dedicated to anesthesia and resuscitation, the peri-operative management of patients. This global management is based on a pre-operative evaluation.

Dermatology

Dermatology is a medical specialty that deals with the skin, mucous membranes and phanera (nails, hair). It is associated with venereology, i.e. the study of venereal diseases or sexually transmitted infections (STI).

Endocrinology

Endocrinology is a discipline of medicine that studies hormones. Its name means: the study (logos) of the internal secretion (crine) (endo). It studies many physiological phenomena, because hormones are involved in many functions in many organisms including humans.

Gastro-Enterology-Hepatology

Gastroenterology or gastroenterology is the medical specialty that studies the digestive system and its diseases. Hepatology is an important branch of this specialty that deals with hepatobiliary diseases, i.e. diseases of the liver, the bile ducts and the spleen. These diseases can have many causes, infectious, tumoral, metabolic... or be multi-factorial.

Hematology

Hematology is the science that studies blood and its diseases (or hemopathies). It studies more particularly the blood cells whose origin is hematopoietic (synthesis of these cells in the bone marrow) and which have a role for oxygenation, immunity and coagulation, and also studies certain plasma molecules which are the coagulation factors.

Geriatrics

Geriatrics is the medicine of the elderly, while gerontology is the study of aging in all its dimensions, including social, economic, demographic, psychological, anthropological, cultural, medical and others. Geriatrics is therefore one of the components of gerontology.

Infectiology

Infectiology is a medical specialty dealing with the diagnosis, control and treatment of infections. Much of an infectious disease specialist's work involves the management of nosocomial (hospital-acquired) infections, but may also involve outpatient consultations.

The Various Medicines

There are several so called branches in the medical field. They are as follows.

Internal Medicine: A medical specialty concerned with the diagnosis and comprehensive management of adult diseases with a predilection for systemic diseases and autoimmune diseases in general.

Nuclear medicine: Includes all medical applications of radioactivity in medicine. Radiopharmaceutical drugs are administered to patients (by intravenous injection, ingestion, inhalation, etc.). These drugs may be isolated radionuclides or consist of a vector and a radionuclide.

The "Acute Medicine" theme includes different research areas related to the three professions representing acute medicine: anesthesiology, emergency medicine and intensive care.

Preventive medicine is the branch of medicine which consists of giving advice on hygiene in the broadest sense and the detection of disease. It is usually practiced by general practitioners because of their proximity to the population.

General medicine, or family medicine, is a medical specialty that provides for the long-term care, well-being and general primary health care of a community, not limited to organ, age or gender specific disease groups.

Physical medicine and rehabilitation is a medical specialty oriented towards the recovery of functional abilities and quality of life of patients with disabilities, whether congenital or acquired, for example, by accident

Palliative medicine is based on the following definition: the follow-up and care of patients with an active, progressive disease, whose stage is very advanced and whose prognosis is very limited, and whose treatment aims to maintain quality of life.

Neonatology-Pediatrics

Neonatology is a medical specialty that focuses on the care of newborns, defined by an age of less than 28 days after birth. These can be premature, normally mature or post-mature.

This pediatric specialty is at the interface with obstetrics and focuses on the fetus during intrauterine life as well as the newborn. It may also be interested in the fate of premature infants.

Pediatrics is a specialized branch of medicine that studies the normal psycho-motor and physiological development of the child, as well as all related pathology (childhood diseases), from birth to the post-pubertal period when the child becomes an adult; it is the medicine of children, the child being defined in law as any subject under the age of 18.

Nephrology-Urology

Nephrology is the medical specialty aimed at preventing, diagnosing and treating kidney diseases. It is different from urology, a surgical specialty that deals with the male reproductive system and the entire urinary system (kidneys, ureters, bladder, prostate, urethra).

Urology is the field of medicine that applies to the kidneys, the urinary tract of women or men, the male reproductive system (male urogenital system) and the adrenal glands.

Odontology

Odontology is the medical-surgical science covering the study of the dental organ (enamel, dentin, dental pulp), the maxilla (jaw bone, mandibular bone) and the adjoining tissues. The tissues adjacent to the dental and maxillary anatomical sites included in the field of dentistry occupy the entire oral cavity and several adjacent anatomical sites.

Oncology

Oncology or carcinology or oncology is the medical specialty of study, diagnosis and treatment of cancers. A physician who practices this discipline is called an oncologist or oncologist.

Ophthalmology

Ophthalmology is the branch of medicine responsible for the treatment of diseases of the eye and its appendages. It is a medical-surgical specialty.

Orthopedics-Rheumatology-Neurology

Orthopedics is the surgical specialty that deals with the prevention and correction of musculoskeletal disorders, which include deformities and malformations of bones, joints, muscles, tendons and nerves. Surgical treatment focuses on the upper limbs (shoulder, elbow and hand), the lower limbs (hip, knee and foot) and the spine.

Rheumatology is a medical specialty concerned with the diagnosis and treatment of diseases of the musculoskeletal system, that is, diseases of the bones, joints, muscles, tendons and ligaments. Rheumatologists also treat certain peripheral neurological disorders such as sciatica and, above all, all inflammatory rheumatism and autoimmune diseases which can have numerous extra-articular manifestations: skin, eyes, kidneys, lungs, etc.

Neurology, which is the clinical medical specialty that studies all diseases of the nervous system and in particular the brain, can therefore be grouped with the first two disciplines for a specialization according to the current modern system.

Otolaryngology

Otolaryngology is a branch of medicine specializing in the diagnosis and treatment of disorders of the nose, throat, ear, and head and neck region. The practitioner is called an otolaryngologist (ENT).

Pulmonology

Pulmonology is the branch of medicine concerned with respiratory diseases.

Radiology

Radiology in the medical field refers to all diagnostic and therapeutic modalities using X-rays, or more generally using radiation.

Psychiatry

Psychiatry is a medical specialty dealing with mental illness. The etymology of the word comes from the Greek word psyche meaning "soul or mind", and iatros meaning physician (literally medicine of the soul). (This is the biggest stupidity of evil intent that modern medicine has produced. There can be no such thing as soul medicine in the health system as conceived by the present pre-humanity).

Radiotherapy

Radiation therapy is a method of locoregional cancer treatment, using radiation to destroy cancer cells by blocking their ability to multiply. The goal of radiation is to destroy all tumor cells while sparing healthy peripheral tissue.

The preceding texts have outlined the various fields of modern medicine as they are elaborated, taught, and practiced within the healthcare system recognized and accepted in today's world. At this point, the first observation that stands out is that a fragmentation of expertise has taken place, which can only be detrimental to the profession's effectiveness and its stated objectives.

Keep in mind that the microcosm and the macrocosm are governed by the same law--The Law of ONENESS--that of balance and harmony. Where there is balance, there is wellness ; where there is imbalance, there is uneasiness. Life is therefore one and simple in its functioning, and wherever one is confronted with any fragmentation of the field in terms of treatment, it is evil that has taken the reins.

This leads us directly to the true nature of modern medical practices in general.

Modern Medical Practice

Right from the start, we'll give ample space to the official definition of contemporary medicine in general.

Beginning of quote.

Modern medicine refers to the contemporary practice of healthcare, based on clinical examination, the scientific method, and cutting-edge biomedical technologies. It relies on the prescription of medications, surgery, and rigorously evaluated therapies to diagnose, treat, and prevent diseases.

Its pillars and innovations are based on several key elements:

Cutting-edge technologies: It now incorporates tools such as artificial intelligence, surgical robotics, and nanotechnology to optimize the accuracy of diagnoses and treatments.

Prevention and vaccines: The development of vaccines is one of its greatest achievements, having drastically reduced the incidence of infectious diseases.

Specializations shaped by history: Many fundamental advances (such as blood transfusion, emergency triage, and reconstructive surgery) were catalyzed by major conflicts, notably World War I.

From this point on, everything that follows should enable the reader to form his own opinion about what is actually going on--the visible surface of which serves as a fig leaf under the label of "modern medicine." The comments in parentheses come from Hatonn or Aton, the compiler of the Phoenix Journals series, a body of documentation of timeless historical value.

Rockefeller and Mass Murder

(Anton Chaitkin)

The Rockefeller Foundation is the prime sponsor of public relations for the United Nations' drastic depopulation program, which the world is invited to accept at the UN's scheduled September conference in Cairo, Egypt.

Evidence in the possession of a growing number of researchers in America, England, and Germany demonstrates that the Foundation and its corporate, medical, and political associates organized the racial mass murder PROGRAM OF NAZI GERMANY. [H: Keep this in mind as you read on--for "Globalist" is also a term for "Zionists"!]

These GLOBALISTS, who function as a conduit for British Empire geopolitics, were not stopped after World War II the United Nations alliance of the old Nazi rightwing with the New Age leftwing poses an even graver danger to the world today than the same grouping did in 1941. [H: Confused? Don't be--THEY ARE ALL PART AND PARCEL OF THE SAME GOAL. Remember, this SAME BUNCH financed the wars as well as setting the policies--then and NOW. THESE ARE THE WOULD-BE-KINGS AND DICTATORS OF YOUR WORLD. So, what am "I" going to do about it? Absolutely nothing more than this--let you in on the secrets as they become public! If you don't like the plight--you fight! Not me, good readers--it is NOT MY PROBLEM!]

The Foundation's money created the medical specialty known as Psychiatric Genetics. [H: Nervous??? And--they did (do) it TAX-FREE!]. For the new experimental field, the Foundation reorganized medical teaching in Germany, creating and thenceforth continuously directing the "Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Psychiatry" and the "Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Anthropology, Eugenics and Human Heredity". The Rockefellers' chief executive of these institutions was the fascist Swiss psychiatrist ERNST RUDIN, assisted by his protégés OTMAR VERSCHUER and FRANZ J. KALLMANN.

In 1932, the British-led "Eugenics" movement designated the Rockefellers' Dr. Rudin as the president of the worldwide Eugenics Federation. The movement called for the killing or sterilization of people whose heredity made them a public burden.

Dr. MENGELE

In 1943, Otmar Verschuer's assistant JOSEPH MENGELE [H: At least HALF-Jew] was made medical commandant of Auschwitz. As wartime director of Rockefeller's Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Anthropology, Eugenics and Human Heredity in Berlin, Verschuer secured funds for Mengele's experiments at Auschwitz from the German Research Council (funding coming from circuitous routing from the Rockefeller Foundation). Verschuer wrote a progress report to the Council: "My co-researcher in this research is my assistant the anthropologist and physician Mengele. He is serving as Hauptstuermfueherer and camp doctor in the concentration camp Auschwitz.. With the permission of the Reichsfuehrere SS Himmler, anthropological research is being undertaken on the various racial groups in the concentration camps and blood samples will be sent to my laboratory for investigation".

Mengele prowled the railroad lines leading into Auschwitz, looking for twins--a favorite subject of psychiatric geneticists. On arrival at Mengele's experimental station, twins filled out "a detailed questionnaire from the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute". There were daily drawings of blood for Verschuer's "specific protein" research. Needles were injected into eyes for work on eye color. There were experimental blood transfusions and infections. Organs and limbs were removed, sometimes without anesthetics. Sex changes were attempted. Females were sterilized, males were castrated. Thousands were murdered and their organs, eyeballs, heads, and limbs were sent to Verschuer and the Rockefeller group at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute.

In 1946, Verschuer wrote to the Bureau of Human Heredity in London, asking for help in continuing his "scientific research".

Facelifting

In 1947, the Bureau of Human Heredity moved from London to Copenhagen. The new Danish building for this was built with Rockefeller money. The first International Congress in Human Genetics following World War II was held at this Danish Institute in 1956. By that time, Verschuer was a member of the American Eugenics Society, then indistinguishable from Rockefeller's Population Council.

Dr. Kallmann helped save Verschuer by testifying in his denazification proceedings. Dr. Kallmann created the American Society of Human Genetics, which organized the "Human Genome Project"--a current $3 BILLION physical multiculturalism effort. Kallmann was a DIRECTOR of the American Eugenics Society in 1952 and from 1954 to 1965. [H: What a small world!]

In the 1950s, the Rockefellers reorganized the U.S. eugenics movement in their own family offices, with spinoff population-control and abortion groups. The Eugenics Society changed its name to the Society for the Study of Social Biology, its current name. [H: A good question to ask RONN JACKSON is: "What about world depopulation and population control?"]

The Rockefeller Foundation had long financed the eugenics movement in England, apparently repaying Britain for the fact that British capital and an Englishman-partner had started old John D. Rockefeller out in his Oil Trust. In the 1960s, the Eugenics Society of England adopted what they called Crypto-eugenics, stating in their official reports that they would do eugenics through means and instruments not labeled as eugenics.

With support from the Rockefellers, the Eugenics Society (England) set up a sub-committee called the International Planned Parenthood Federation, which for 12 years had no other address than the Eugenics Society.

This, then, is the private, international apparatus which has set the world up for a global holocaust, under the UN flag.

End of quoting

Thus, according to what is claimed, modern medical practice is said to be based on science, biomedical technologies, and innovation. It is said to combine clinical examinations, cutting-edge research, digitalization, and the integration of personalized therapies to optimize the treatment and prevention of diseases.

Nevertheless, given the facts presented in the preceding excerpts--extended to the fragmentation that has taken place within the sector, resulting in the emergence of diverse, isolated, "orphaned," and ineffective specialties--an obvious conclusion presents itself and should be evident to anyone well-informed about the nature and vital functions of the human being. The list of the various professional specialties found in the field of modern medicine--numbering more than twenty, among others--sufficiently informs the inquisitive mind about the harm at work. The reality is that all these specialized disciplines are separated from one another without valid reasons, except perhaps deliberately for unstated objectives. But the evident failure demonstrated to date by the medical sector in treating most of the ills plaguing human societies speaks volumes enough to awaken even the most deeply slumbering person.

Therefore, the official assertion put forth at the outset of the analysis of the facts, regarding the medical profession is outright misleading and cannot be taken into consideration, since the very notion of adequacy and effectiveness in any field of activity categorically clashes with the fragmentation and dispersion of the expertise required in matters of health, global bodily harmony, which the sector in point is currently experiencing. All the conventional specializations established separately within the profession are, in reality, interconnected, and most of them should be grouped under a single branch of expertise aimed at treating the human body as an indivisible, unified whole. In practical terms, this means that specialists trained in the medical field should be retrained to embrace other specialties in addition to the one they have already acquired, so as to remedy, at least to some extent, the undoubtedly harmful fragmentation of expertise.

The fact is that all effects manifested in the physical body result from a single cause: an imbalance that has occurred somewhere within the cell system or the energy pattern of the trine body. Identifying the cause and treating it undoubtedly makes it possible to eliminate all effects, whatever they may be. Viewed from this perspective, it is clear that modern medicine has fragmented the field into multiple disciplines : A DELIBERATE EVILNESS AMIDST A BACKGROUND OF PRETENTIOUS IGNORANCE.

Medical Surgery in General

Another excerpt from The Phoenix Journals N° 42, dictated by Aton Michael, to further clarify the reader's perspective.

Beginning of quote.

Ah yes, there are daring fighters in all parts of your world -- South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, China, Palestine and yes, there is even the element of God's people who struggle hardest of all -- in Israel against the corruptors and violators of humanity.

So what does this have to do with Cancer? If you can't see from whence springs the physical blight of the planet -- how can you understand the physical blight of the individual?

Now to quote Eustace Mullins:

In 400 B.C., Hippocrates assigned the name of Cancer or "crab" to a disease encountered during his time, because of its crab-like spread through the body. Its Greek name was "karkinos". In 164 A.D., the physician Galen in Rome used the name of "tumour" to describe this disease, from the Greek "tymbos" meaning a sepulchral mound, and the Latin tumore, "to swell". The disease could not have been very prevalent; it is not mentioned in the Bible, nor is it included in the ancient medical book of China, The Yellow Emperor's Classic of Internal Medicine. Unknown in most traditional societies, it spread with the rise of the Industrial Revolution. In the 1830's, cancer was responsible for two per cent of deaths around Paris; cancer caused four per cent of deaths in the United States in 1900.

With the rise of cancer came "modern" methods of coping with it. A leading critic of the medical establishment, Dr. Robert S. Mendelsohn, comments that "Modern cancer surgery someday will be regarded with the same kind of horror that we now regard the use of leeches in George Washington's time." The surgery of which he spoke is the widely accepted and imposed method of cancer treatment now in vogue throughout the United States. It is called the "cut, slash and burn" technique. This method of cancer treatment actually represents the highwater mark of the German allopathic school of medicine in the United States. It relies almost exclusively on surgery, bleeding and heavy use of drugs, with the exotic addition of radium treatment. The Temple of the modern method of cancer treatment in the United States is the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Institute in New York. Its high priests are the surgeons and researchers at this center.

Originally known as Memorial Hospital, this cancer establishment was presided over during its early years by two physicians who were stereotypes of the Hollywood caricatures of "the mad doctor". If Hollywood planned to make a movie about this hospital, they would be stymied by the fact that only the late Bela Lugosi would be appropriate to play not one, but each of these two doctors. The first of these "mad" doctors was Dr. J. Marion Sims. Son of a South Carolina sheriff and tavern owner, Sims (1813-1883) was a nineteenth century "women's doctor". For years he dabbled in "experimental surgery" by performing experiments on slave women in the South.

According to his biographer, these operations were "little short of murderous". When plantation owners refused to allow him to conduct further experiments on their slaves, he was forced to purchase a seventeen year old slave girl for $500. Within a few months he had performed some thirty operations on this unfortunate, a girl named Anarcha. Because there was no anesthesia at the time, he had to ask friends to hold Anarcha down while he performed his surgery. After one or two such experiences, they usually refused to have anything further to do with him. He continued to experiment on Anarcha for four years and, in 1853, he decided to move to New York. Whether his little negro hospital in South Carolina was surrounded by screaming villagers one night as they brandished torches, as in an old Frankenstein movie, is not known. However, his decision to move seems to have come rather suddenly. Dr. Sims bought a house on Madison Avenue, where he found a supporter in the heiress of the Phelps empire, Mrs. Melissa Phelps Dodge. This family has continued to be prominent supporters of the present cancer center. With her financial assistance, Sims founded Women's Hospital, a 30 bed, all charity hospital which opened on May 1, 1855.

Like a later quack, "Doc" Simmons, Sims advertised himself as a women's specialist, particularly in "vesico-vaginal fistula", an abnormal passage between the bladder and the vagina. It is now known that this condition has always been "iatrogenic", that is, caused by the ministrations of doctors. In the 1870's, Sims began to specialize in the treatment of cancer. Rumors began to circulate in New York of barbarous operations being performed at Women's Hospital. The "mad doctor" was at it again. The trustees of the institution reported that "the lives of all the patients were being threatened by mysterious experiments." Dr. Sims was fired from Women's Hospital. However, because of his powerful financial supporters, he was soon reinstated. [H: re-read the Protocols -- the man was DOING HIS JOB!] He was then contacted by members of the Astor family, whose fortune was founded on old John Jacob Astor's ties with the East India Company, the British Secret Intelligence Service, and the international opium trade. [H: Chelas, is any of this beginning to sound familiar in other aspects of interesting operations?] One of the Astors had recently died of cancer, and the family wished to establish a cancer hospital in New York. They first approached the trustees of Women's Hospital with an offer of a donation of $150,000 (a very large amount at that time) if they would turn it into a cancer hospital. Smarting from his recent firing, Sims double-crossed the trustees by private negotiations with the Astors. He persuaded them to back him in a new hospital, which he called the New York Cancer Hospital. It opened in 1884. Dr. Sims later went to Paris, where he attended the Empress Eugenie. He was later awarded the Order of Leopold from the King of the Belgians. Apparently he had lost none of his chutzpah. He returned to New York, where he died shortly before the opening of his new hospital.

In the 1890's, after receiving gifts from other benefactors, the hospital was renamed Memorial Hospital. In the mid-twentieth century, the names of Sloan and Kettering were added. Despite these names, this cancer center has for many years been a major appendage of the Rockefeller Medical Monopoly. During the 1930's, a block of land on the fashionable Upper East Side was donated by the Rockefellers to build its new building. Rockefeller henchmen have dominated the board ever since the building was opened. In 1913, a group of doctors and laymen met in May at the Harvard Club in New York City to establish a national cancer organization. Not unnaturally, it was named the American Society for the Control of Cancer. Note that it was not called a society for the "cure" of cancer, or the "prevention" of cancer, nor have these ever been primary goals of this organization. 1913, of course, was a very significant year in American history. During that fateful year President Woodrow Wilson signed the Federal Reserve Act, which was set up to provide funding for the forthcoming World War; a national progressive income tax, taken directly from Marx's Communist manifesto of 1848, [H: And fully in line with the Zionist Protocols which states: "Gold always has been and always will be the irresistible power. Handled by expert hands it will always be the most useful lever for those who possess it, and the object of envy for those who do not. With gold we can buy the most rebellious consciences, can fix the rate of all values, the current price of all products, can subsidize all State loans and thereafter hold the states at our mercy. Already the principal banks, the exchanges of the entire world, the credits of all the governments are in our hands"], was imposed upon the American people; and legislatures had their Constitutional duty of appointing Senators removed, they being henceforth elected by popular demand; they all now had to compete for the popular vote. It was in this heady era of socialist planning that the cancer society originated.

Naturally enough, it was funded by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. His attorneys, Debevoise and Plimpton, remained dominant in the administration of the new society throughout the 1920's. Its funding came from the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Foundation, and from J.P. Morgan.

From its inception, the American Cancer Society has followed the pattern set up by the American Society for the Control of Cancer. ACS also had a board of trustees, a House of Delegates, and in the 1950's, it also established a Committee on Quackery. This Committee later changed its name to the Committee on Unproven Methods of Cancer Management (note that it was called "management", not "cure"), but the society still used the term "quackery" freely in referring to any methods not sanctioned by its trustees, or deviating from the "cut, slash and burn" method of cancer treatment.

In 1909, the railroad magnate, E. H. Harriman (whose fortune, like that of the Rockefellers, had been funded entirely with Rothschild money funneled to him by Jacob Schiff of Kuhn, Loeb Co.) died of cancer. His family then formed the Harriman Research Institute. In 1917, the scion of the family, W. Averell Harriman, abruptly decided to go into politics, or rather, to manage our political parties from behind the scenes. The Institute was suddenly shut down. Its financial backing was then transferred to Memorial Hospital. The principal backer of the hospital at that time was James Douglas, (1837-1918). He was chairman of the Phelps Dodge Corporation, whose heiress in 1853, Melissa Phelps Dodge, had been the initial backer of what eventually became Memorial Hospital. She had married a dry goods merchant named William Dodge, who used the Phelps fortune to become a giant in copper production.

The Dictionary of National Biography describes James Douglas as "the dean of mining and metallurgical properties". He owned the richest copper mine in the world, the Copper Queen Lode. Born in Canada, he was the son of Dr. James Douglas, a surgeon who became head of the Quebec Lunatic Asylum. His son joined the Phelps-Dodge Company in 1910, later becoming its chairman. Because he had discovered extensive pitchblende deposits on his Western mining properties, he became fascinated with radium. In collaboration with the Bureau of Mines, a government agency which he, for all practical purposes, controlled, he founded the National Radium Institute. His personal physician was a Dr. James Ewing (1866-1943). Douglas offered to give Memorial Hospital $100,000, but there were several conditions. One was that the hospital must hire Dr. Ewing as its chief pathologist; the second was that the hospital must commit itself to treating nothing but cancer, and that it would routinely use radium in its cancer treatments. The hospital accepted these conditions.

With Douglas' money behind him, Ewing soon became head of the entire hospital. Douglas was so convinced of the benefits of radium therapy that he used it frequently on his daughter, who was then dying of cancer; on his wife; and on himself, exposing his family to radium therapy for the most trivial ailments. Because of Douglas' prominence, the New York times gave a great deal of publicity to the new radium treatment for cancer. The journalist headlined his story with a page one headline, "Radium Cure Free for All". The claim was made that "not one cent's worth of radium will be for sale". Douglas was greatly annoyed by this statement, and on October 24, 1913, he had the Times run a correction. He was quoted as follows: "All this story about humanity and philanthropy is foolish. I want it understood that I shall do what I like with the radium that belongs to me." This was a rare glimpse of the true nature of the "philanthropist". His rivals in this field, Rockefeller and Carnegie, always gave away their money with no string attached. With this assurance, they were able to stealthily establish their secret power over the nation. Douglas had revealed the true nature of our "philanthropists".

The original press releases from Memorial Hospital had in fact intimated that the radium treatments would be free. They apparently believed that the great philanthropist James Douglas would donate his supply. The Memorial Hospital Rules and Regulations were immediately changed to stipulate that "an extra charge would be made for Radium Emanations used in the treatment of patients." In 1924, the Radium Department at Memorial Hospital gave $18,000 radium treatments to patients, for which it charged $70,000, its largest single source of income for that year.

Meanwhile, James Douglas, who had boasted that he would do what he liked with his radium, continued to give himself frequent treatments. A few weeks after the New York Times story in 1913, he died of aplastic anemia. Medical authorities now believe that he was but one of a number of personalities associated with the early development of radium who died from its effects, the most famous being Marie Curie, wife of its discoverer, and her daughter, Irene Joliot Curie. By 1922, more than one hundred radiologists had died from X-ray induced cancer.

Douglas' protege, Dr. Ewing, remained at Memorial Hospital several more years. He developed a number of ailments, the most annoying being tic doloreaux, which made it embarrassing for him to meet or talk with anyone. He withdrew from the hospital, becoming a recluse on Long Island, where he finally died of cancer of the bladder in 1943.

Douglas' son and heir, Lewis Douglas, inherited one of the largest American fortunes of that time. He married Peggy Zinsser, daughter of a partner of J.P. Morgan Co. Peggy's two sisters also married well; one married John J. McCloy, who became the chief lawyer for the Rockefeller interests; the other married Konrad Adenauer, who became Chancellor of postwar Germany. Lewis Douglas became chairman of Mutual Life of New York, a Morgan controlled company. Early in World War II, he became a protege of W. Averell Harriman in the Lend Lease Administration. Douglas was then named chairman of the War Shipping Board, one of the famous "dollar a year" men of the Roosevelt administration. Later in the war, he succeeded Harriman as U.S. Ambassador to England. After Hitler's fall, Douglas was slated to become High Commissioner of Germany, but he stepped aside to allow his brother-in-law, John J. McCloy, to take this post. The two Americans were pleasantly surprised when their brother-in-law, Konrad Adenauer, was named Chancellor. The family interests of the J.P. Morgan firm were firmly in control. In fact, Adenauer's earlier political activities in wartime Germany had centered around a small group of J. P. Morgan cohorts in Germany. They were ready to take over when Hitler died.

In the 1930's, two giants of the automotive industry were persuaded to become contributors to Memorial Hospital. Alfred P. Sloan had been president of General Motors. He owned a 235 foot yacht which was valued at one and a quarter million dollars in 1940. Charles Kettering was an authentic inventive genius, responsible for much to today's auto ignition, lights, starters and other electrical systems. FORTUNE estimated in 1960 that Sloan was worth 200-400 million dollars, while Kettering was worth some 100 to 200 million.

[H: Now isn't this a lot more informative and honest than all the begatting and more begatting in that book which fills many pages of nonsense? I guarantee that if you "stay tuned" we will discover that these same people I name in the above material will find their names on the "translations of the Bible" foundation for Biblical authenticity AND on the lists of participants in the founding of the Protocols and all socialist/fascist manifestos. In almost all instances in the "begatting order of Biblical transcriptions", the names represent absolutely NO-ONE! Can you actually believe you will get any translated proof of contents of the Dead Sea Scrolls? These very people who control your world control the Scrolls in point. You are going to come into "reason", dear ones, or you aren't going to make it].

When the so-called advances in modern medicine are touted, you can now form a clear picture--based on the report that has just been highlighted--of the underlying circumstances, the players behind the scenes, and the real motivation. The true nature of currently widespread medical practices and all the technological paraphernalia involved escapes the general public only because widespread, perpetuated ignorance has served--and continues to serve--as fertile ground for sowing lies and making people swallow bitter pills. Ultimately, what you end up with is a human society fully mired in a kind of schizophrenia where the tangible harmful effects of socio-behavioral patterns are, at best, viewed as inevitable, and at worst, as desired, desirable, and perpetuated social privileges. This is indeed the problematic situation facing the field of healthcare as humans experience it in this era upon Earth.

In modern medicine (allopathy), if you look closely, the field of surgery--or the various types of surgery--has not only become completely invasive, but, even more so, it is very poorly practiced by so-called specialist surgeons who are increasingly incompetent in every branch of the field. What humanity has been facing for some time--in fact, practically since the beginning--in this field is a shortcut that consists of outright butchering of human anatomy in order to cut out and remove the problem, rather than simply helping the body to heal itself. Cutting-incising the body in almost every instance to deprive it of a part necessary for its proper functioning constitutes a confession of impotency and ignorance on the part of the profession. And yet this is done under the pretense of healing. Then there is the aspect of consuming and poisoning the body through the drugs and toxic chemical methods used and imposed by the proponents of the medical monopoly establishment.

The typical treatment, cutting-incising-consuming-poisoning, carried out systematically--is what is referred to by the flattering term "Modern Medicine." It is this approach of admitted helplessness that is sold to human beings as cutting-edge scientific and technological progress, precious and practically inaccessible to the majority of the peoples. This contempt for life is what is brought to the fore to conceal all other highly valuable and effective alternative methods, instead of addressing the genuine need to perform surgery to correct and/or limit damage to the body's organs--and that only in cases of extreme emergency, when the situation cannot be treated any other way.

As you may have noted earlier in the list and the definitions provided for these specialties, contrary to what it might seem, this multiple dissection has never been necessary and never will be, no matter how one looks at the issue as a whole.

Let's take childbirth as an instance. Increasingly, cesarean sections are being performed on women by medical doctors who are becoming more and more incompetent, powerless in the face of the obvious difficulties encountered during childbirth. No effort is made to identify the root cause of the problem in order to correct it. The same is true across all areas of medical surgery. The cause(s) have never been seriously investigated; therefore, it is only the effects--which are misunderstood or misinterpreted--that are treated in a clumsy, irresponsible, or even criminal manner by the medical establishment. Criminal because there is indeed an agenda behind all of this that most men and women in the medical profession are unaware of, since it is now clearly established that things are going from bad to worse.

An assessment must therefore be conducted here to weed out and readjust what will be retained for the time being.

Pharmaceutical Industry and Medicines

"As for what you say about their making attempts on your lives; make your sons doctors and apothecaries, that they may take away Christians' lives." Taken from a "Protocol of the Elders of Zion" of the Fifteenth Century.

The introductory quote above pinpoints the source of the issue discussed herein and those responsible for the situation : the proponents of sprawling International Zionism, one of whose pillars is the pharmaceutical industry. "Big Pharma" is a term used to refer to the world's largest pharmaceutical companies. These companies often cloak themselves in the guise of philanthropy to deceive their world, but in reality prioritize their massive profits at the expense of public health.

It is a global medical monopoly, owned and operated by one of the tentacles of the Zionist Cabal, a malevolent interest group dedicated to this industrial sector. And as everyone can understand, monopoly goes hand in hand with control and secrecy, which inevitably leads to intentional malfeasance; thusly, the entire system is designed to serve obscure interests at the expense of human life.

Based on this undeniable truth, we can clearly see that society has placed the precious lives of its citizens in the dark hands of a so-called Satanic-inspired elite. It is therefore not surprising that we are witnessing more and more people suffering from ailments that modern medicine claims it cannot cure.

Examples include cancer, hepatitis, AIDS, hypertension, prostate cancer, tuberculosis, malaria, cholera, and so on. All of these are conditions that are perfectly curable with the right therapeutic approach, yet under the current system, they are allowed to progress to advanced stages, leading to frailty, aging, and ultimately the premature death of the body. The reality is that everything is done to keep the body sick while drugs or poisons--labeled as medicines--are administered to try to hide and/or alleviate the severe effects resulting from these ailments. It is these very so-called remedies that exacerbate the imbalance in the body, which stems from our lifestyle choices on the mental, emotional, and dietary levels.

The pharmaceutical produce used to treat and manage diseases are undoubtedly harmful to the body, contrary to what is generally taught and believed--both by medical doctors themselves and by the general public. All the evidence is now clear, and it is plain to see. Virtually all of the ailments that afflict human beings are declared and accepted as incurable. Consequently, what is offered to us--and what we have adopted over any other, more effective means--serves only to alleviate symptoms and allow for the continuation of a life of imbalance hidden beneath a veneer of normality.

IV

The Traditherapeutic Transition

In order to move definitively to a Holistic systemic approach to health (Global Bodily Harmony), it is necessary to observe a salutary transition that will have as its objective to cleanse the human being of all the poisons and toxins ingested during entire generations, in those medical practices promoted by modern medicine. These are the same ones that we have just exposed in the previous chapter. And to do this, there is a certain amount of sorting and reform to be done in order to keep only the essential while we travel the path towards the ideal aimed at in this paper, which is an advanced system of Global Bodily Harmony.

Allopathic Medicine

In this abundantly supplied and scattered field, a certain number of disciplines which are still useful at present will be retained to serve as a supplement to the traditional therapy which will be in general use for prophylaxis and cure.

In the new curative approach, only the following disciplines will be retained in the field of allopathic medicine.

General Surgery

In this branch, the four disciplines of surgery, anesthesiology, orthopedics and cardiology will be included in order to intervene in all fields related to heart, nerve and cerebrospinal system disorders.

Radiotherapy

Infectious diseases, radiotherapy, radiology, gastroenterology and hepatology are grouped under the discipline of Radiotherapy. It will take care of the scan, diagnosis and treatment of ailments using X-rays, or other more advanced treatment lasers.

Nativitology

These four distinct disciplines, neonatology, pediatrics, and gynecology-obstetrics are grouped together in this branch under a single specialization, Nativitology. Its function will be to take care of newborns, to deal with the medical aspects of the woman, whatever her age, as well as the pregnant woman and the unborn child. She follows up on the normal development of the child, as well as all related pathology.

Neurotherapy

Rheumatology, neurology and ophthalmology are combined under the name of Neurotherapy. Its function is to assist the body in the regulation of its neural system.

Traditherapy

In the field of health, all the emphasis must be put on prevention, and the approach will only be that mastered by Traditherapy. All the fields previously covered by modern medicine will henceforth be under the responsibility of the national Traditherapists in synergy with the recast specialties provisionally retained from the current allopathic approach.

The means of treatment will henceforth be derived essentially from phytotherapy. The modern pharmacy will be replaced by phyto-therapeutic products developed and elaborated locally.

The sanitation of the living environment and the food and life hygiene will undoubtedly greatly favor this objective of health prevention.

Metallic Colloids

In this context, the use of colloidal metals--namely silver, gold, and titanium, among others--will take center stage in the medical treatment of various infectious and parasitic diseases affecting humans. The nation's raw materials will, first and foremost, be used to provide the people with these simplest and most effective means of healing.

The antibiotics currently used in modern medicine--with all their aggravating side effects--will thus be consigned to oblivion, offering better prospects for rapid recovery for the masses of our nation and across Terra.

In the following sections, the issue of colloids is further clarified with regard to their effectiveness in treating pathogens in general.

Stayin' Alive

I need to remind you succinctly about Colloids and a couple of other things we have offered you--plus some we now stand ready to offer you, in limited supply, as upgraded items. You already have available the "grape seeds" through New Gaia [see p. 19 for ordering information], and our people are seeking out a way to get to you, from here, the equivalent of DHEA and Melatonin. You do not need much of either--but the cost at retail level of these products is mind-boggling, to me. We also have to have a product of superior quality or New Gaia's name will not be affixed. THE LIES REALLY DO STOP RIGHT HERE!

I choose to not write on these things yet because what is happening around you is so much the more important because you may well not have ANYTHING available now to counter the assault of the DNA-upgraded attacker-viruses.

I need to integrate into your "knowledge" banks the changes we bring and WHY, along with what to expect, especially visually, from any products from this source.

In the NEW tampered viruses, where a molecule of zinc once held the "head" or "cap" of the virus onto its body and thus allowed "life" from this crystalline formation and allowed programming, the molecule utilized now is most often Titanium, while they work on an even higher-frequency-tolerant "neck". Silver [Ag] colloid can knock out the zinc molecule easily but can only disrupt those viruses bearing that insignia. This does NOT mean that it isn't good for all the other hundreds of known invaders, but even when you move into the category of the nervous system attackers and brain invaders, you are "iffy" with just a silver colloid.

Why? Be cause you must now deal with "frequency" or "light emission" (color) of the "antibiotic" and yet when you move into such high-frequency radiation—you kill off the body as well as any negative bacterial or biological substance. So, you need to go with something that carries high frequency, is harmless to "life" in a relative manner (even helpful to body function if at all possible), and can act as an immune system "shield" or enhancer.

Silver colloid will do this, but cannot destroy anything with a "higher" frequency than itself. Therefore, to have adequate POWER FREQUENCY you must move to higher elements which will take on the higher frequencies (beyond visible or even invisible ultraviolet rays). The word "violet" is a KEY word here. You are going to have to move into the purple frequency range AT LEAST for the new manmade invaders. It isn't going to be, and I will tell you this right up front, enough to simply add a little gold [Au] and turn the solution violet.

That will help because in colloidalizing gold within the already colloidalized silver, the frequency will be brought up to meet the raw gold. However, if the "neck" on the virus is titanium alchemized into violet spectrum--you still are not going to blast out the little buggers, easily. You have GOT TO HAVE A SOLUTION BEARING THOSE SOLAR FREQUENCIES AND EVERY MACHINE WHICH PRODUCES SUCH FREQUENCIES HAS BEEN TAKEN FROM YOU AS FAST AS THE "BIG BOYS" HAVE FOUND THEM.

Well, it doesn't do any good to raid the Drias, for they have a programmed mind of their own and whether you like it or don't like it--WE SPACE HOSTS HOLD THE PROGRAM KEY.

The "Big Boy's" main puppets hold the antidotes for these manmade diseases but they may find it interesting when those very bugs are upgraded and turned back upon themselves!

Colloids

The term colloid (kol' oid) refers to a substance that consists of ultra-fine particles that don't dissolve, but remain suspended in a medium of different matter. These ultra-fine particles are larger than most molecules, but so small they cannot be seen by the naked eye. Not all brands which claim to be colloidal silver are, in fact, "true" colloids of silver. In fact, I suggest that most ARE NOT!

In a true colloid of silver the ideal size of the silver particles falls within the range of 0.005-0.015 microns [a unit of length equal to one-ten-thousandth of a centimeter; and a centimeter is about as long as half an inch] in diameter and most instruments cannot measure the particles, but they can only be read on a spectrometer which measures COLOR frequencies. These tiny particles are electrically charged to activate the germicidal quality of the silver and allow the silver particles to remain suspended in the solution of deionized water.

There are two principle ways of producing metallic colloids : chemical and physical (electrical). The two methods of production yield widely different results (e.g., OxySol and GaiaCol).

Both serve their own individual PURPOSE, but let us consider the electrical colloid method here, since this presents the necessary homogeneity, minuteness of granules, purity, and stability, so far sought in the community of health watchers. It is NOT enough that they don't seem to think far enough to encompass the full needs. You do have to get suspension in solution by the tiny charge placed on the particles--but you also need something to continue to allow upgrading of charge and this is mostly overlooked. Silver has always fit the needs of the day--up to now. So, why look further into the unknown when the other organisms which would come were not available for the testing? This is WHY millions die with each NEW plague--the lack of foresight and anticipation of need.

A "true" colloid that is properly prepared does not require an artificial stabilizer or additive of any kind. Typically, the "stabilizer" used in products which claim to be genuine colloids, but are not, is a protein, often listed on the label as a "natural excipient" (or is not listed at all). The problem with the use of stabilizers is that they tend to disturb the charge which, in turn, renders the solution relatively useless by blocking the action and reducing the overall effectiveness of the colloid--by simply releasing the "charge" instead of holding and enhancing it.

The desirable particulate size of anything in colloidal solution is extremely minute because it must enter into and be held in suspension within molecules of the starting liquid. Too large particulate can lodge in intestinal linings and damage the surface lining. However, I am not impressed with that, for the body HAS TO HAVE THESE MINERALS FOR HEALTHY MAINTENANCE.

No, I do not suggest you eat coins--that plugs up the system quite effectively sometimes. By the introduction of gold electrodes, the frequency of the silver is raised to that of more than the sum of the two frequencies combined, and the particulate will become more refined while the overabundance will settle out. The addition of Drias will pull the combined frequency on up higher, but will cloud the solution as it converts the very substance into a new element form which will then take the cosmic energy charge and hold it.

This brings us to the COLOR ISSUE:

The critical indicator of the quality of colloidal silver is color. As the size of each silver particle gets larger, the color of the solution ranges from yellow to brown to red to gray to black. This is not good transformation if dealing ONLY with silver. In terms of quality IN A SILVER-ONLY COLLOID SOLUTION, this range of color can be interpreted as "best to fair to mediocre to inferior". Colloids of silver that are produced using the proper electrocolloidal method are a different color than the "grind" or chemically produced colloids, except in the case of some products that contain artificial food coloring to achieve the right color to fool you. The ideal form of Colloidal Silver is a golden yellow color, which is the FREQUENCY tone of silver.

Gold will give off a purple color tone. In the presence of gold electrodes (which introduce gold into the silver solution), the entire solution will be brought into the frequency of the purple color range. So if you have colloidal silver, which is golden yellow, you will have a conversion of color (in the presence of gold electrodes) and gold particulate, to purple or shades thereof.

When you add Drias to that solution and put in presence of intense light (such as the direct Sun), the immediate reaction starts to happen--moving from cloudy to aqua-colored translucent solution to, finally, clarification and ultimately back to pure transparent liquid.

You don't need all that transmutation, as the violet solution is superb for what is put upon you NOW. Mostly the golden colloid of silver will confront anything you have present right now--but you will need to upgrade as we can upgrade. And you will note that GaiaCol is violet in hue.

Silver And Gold

Silver and gold occur naturally in the soil as trace minerals and, as such, are two of many essential elements required by plants, animals and man that were once naturally obtained from organic soils via fruits, vegetables, nuts, grains and legumes. Now, with most of the crop plants grown on highly depleted, chemically fertilized soils, many of the more important metallic minerals such as iron, zinc, copper, magnesium and chromium, and trace minerals like silver and gold, are no longer readily available to us except through the use of mineral supplements.

Silver and gold are linked DIRECTLY to the immune systems of living beings. People or animals with a low intake of these minerals will not be healthy and will be greatly prone to illness and mutation.

Tests show that silver and/or gold in true colloidal solution (3-5 ppm) have little effect on "friendly" bacteria. This is because those which dwell WITH YOU will have your frequency already and will therefore not be substantially assaulted by higher frequencies which your body can adapt to quickly. However, in higher dosage intake, they will be put at risk and need to be replaced. Since the availability of supplemental good bacteria is easy to acquire [from the shelves of your local health food store], don't worry about it--just enhance your possibly depleted system by supplementation (planting of new friendly bacteria).

Health Infrastructure

A reorganization of the national healthcare system will require a review of the overall demographic and geographic distribution. All scattered settlements isolated from more densely populated areas will be relocated and merged with the latter. City boundaries will be more clearly defined, forming cohesive and easily accessible regroupings throughout the entire territory.

The number of restructured urban and rural communities will be adjusted according to the plan designed to achieve the intended efficiency. As part of this urban and rural reorganization, adequate infrastructure will be established to directly serve the local population and be accessible to all at all times. This will be implemented in each community on an equal basis and with equal standard of quality.

This alignment with the new methods of healing and treatment will require that Harmony and Balance Treatment Units be established in each Life Community at a rate of one per territorial community, with a capacity of 2,000 beds, serving a population of approximately 100,000 residents. Two types of treatment centers will be established in each community: one addressing the physical aspect of the body and the other assisting in the treatment of the subtle spiritual aspect of the being.

Based on a total population of ten (10) million, the combined healthcare facilities will have a capacity of 200,000 beds. The goal is to treat the entire national population as quickly as possible in order to free up resources for the construction of the New Nation. Once this milestone is reached, some of the facilities will be repurposed for other useful purposes.

V

Toward Perpetual Global Bodily Harmony

In this Systemic Self-sufficiency-Autarchy, recommended for a new, highly enlightened Global Civilization, the harmony of the human trine body will be managed from a high-level scientific perspective. This will involve technology derived from Advanced Science that mankind already possesses upon Mother Terra. The orientation and funding of research in general along these lines should very quickly put nations on track to mastering that which has already been well documented and provided by great minds.

Great minds have thus already paved the way--an enlightened path--toward a human society free from dis-ease and many other ills that plague people. With the rendering harmless of the malevolent circles that systematically opposed, ridiculed, and often murdered these great researchers during their time upon Terra-Urantia, the choice will be ours to embrace this path. Only by following in their footsteps will the new Civilization be able to create a literal Earthly Paradise.

In possession of this advanced method of harmonizing and balancing the global organic system of the physical human being, humanity will no longer need other forms of treatment as we presently use them, namely herbs, homeopathy, and all kinds of remedies.

Excerpts from these outstanding scientific works are presented below, followed by the author's comments, to provide an illuminating glimpse of how this achievement is already within reach--if only humanity is willing to reach out with determination and courage to seize it and bring it to light.

Keep in mind that this was written in 1989-90 and that things have likely evolved within the scientific community since then, even if these changes have not been made available to the public. And it is very certain that these discoveries have not been implemented ; otherwise, the results in terms of public health would have been truly remarkable, widely appreciated, and spectacular.

The works in point are primarily those that stem from the contributions to humanity made by Walter Russell, Antoine Priore, Royal R. Rife, and Nikola Tesla, among others. Fortunately, we do not have to reinvent the wheel, as research in this field has already elevated the wisdom of knowledge to great heights.

In the discussion that follows, the excerpts presented have already been spotlighted, in part, in the treatise on Divine Lighted Popularism. However, it is well worth repeating them at this stage so that the perspective becomes clearer in relation to the direction things are expected to take in this specific field.

Promising But Suppressed Scientific Approaches

The approaches that will be revealed in this section are based, as the reader will see, on highly conclusive scientific research that could have been put to use in the service of a noble cause for the benefit of human civilization as a whole. And this would have made a huge difference in the living conditions of the Earth's masses, had the leaders of the nations involved been even slightly enlightened and of good character.

The quotations begin here.

Genetic Engineering

I got off onto the subject of Sagan and space-brothers, (enemies or friends), because of this subject in point. You have and are playing with actual "life" energy which can be called electromagnetic, scalar, prana, life, cosmic, etheric and thus and so. I am here to tell you RIGHT NOW, that you do not even need to introduce by injection one DNA into another--that DNA programming can be transferred right through electromagnetic waves from one sealed container into another. The "rays" (high frequency light waves) now abundant in your atmosphere are capable of doing this trick on their own fluke of presence. However, it becomes quite interesting as MAN learns how to tamper and play.

We have one very human individual who doesn't even call himself a scientist--who can literally place a certain "metal" plate on the roof, run a wire to a dark basement and into a pot wherein seeds are planted, seal the container with foil wrap to further darken the area--and grow quite healthy and productive plants. This should tell you that what you sees is not what youze is get-tin'. These same frequencies are carried right through containers to energize anything and everything. The energy will flow first to its own kind and then it will proceed, under certain circumstances, to cross with anything and everything around.

Through the Chinese and Russians this has become a recognized art and science--but these things are hidden from you in the general public as best the beasts can do so. There is even a term now recognized as "Bioenergyinformatics". You have come a long way, babies, and now you REALLY have a bull by the tail because--once unleashed--you cannot control this insanity.

An Alternative To Genetic Engineering

AURA-Z, VOL. 1, No. 3: (Spring, 1994.) [H: I have to admit, readers, that THIS is a Russian journal-type of document which has been translated. This may, for your information, account for your not having easy and ready access to the information. We are not even offered the name of the Editor (or the direct author) of the paper in point for international protection. However, you will note that in Russia this has been utilized and is not directly taken by the government. It is not utilized on a wide-spread basis either--again a reflection of your power-brokers.]

[QUOTING:]

We are pleased to introduce a man whose name has long been known in scientific circles, but is only coming to be recognized by official science.

DOCTOR CHAING: His name needs no additional attributes. Held in high esteem by some, it evokes apprehension and lack of understanding among others. It arouses gratitude and guarded curiosity.

In the dark Middle Ages Chiang's fate would, probably, have brought him to the fire of the Inquisition; in the 21st century he will perhaps be revered as highly as Einstein or Tsiolkovsky. [H: I wonder how many of you have even heard of Tsiolkovsky?]

It has always been difficult to be ahead of one's time. CHIANG KANZHEN' s story is no exception to this rule.

Without going into the details of his biography, which is worthy of separate attention (four years imprisonment during the "cultural revolution" in China, an escape, crossing the border into the USSR in 1971, an ordeal in the Khabarovsk Territory, and Soviet citizenship only in 1989), let me mention only the milestones:

- born in 1933 in Changtu (Liaoning Province, China), the son of a school headmaster;*
- a diploma from the Chinese University of Medicine in 1959;*
- in his student years, parallel with medicine, he studied cybernetics, quantum mechanics, and radio engineering, which enabled him to formulate the hypothesis: "In the process of the body's vital activities, its atoms and molecules HAVE TO BE linked by bioelectromagnetic fields--the UNIVERSAL MATERIAL CARRIER of energy and information.*

Chiang's entire subsequent life has been devoted to obtaining evidence confirming this hypothesis and has brought him to a STUNNING DISCOVERY: genetic, biological, and psychic information is transmitted by biological EHF communications (biomicrowave communications). A technique has been discovered for the directed transmission of such information by means of a special-purpose device.

The initial experimental results were obtained very long ago, at a university laboratory in China. After Chiang had to start all over again in Khabarovsk, these results were confirmed.

The Soviet press from time to time reported his experiments, invariably under such headings as "Sensation" or "Defying the Imagination". However, the authorities kept silent, although Chiang had applied for the registration of his discovery of biomicrowave communications as far back as 1974. Nor had there been any response to letters addressed to the highest authorities: to Brezhnev, Andropov, or Chernenko, to various presidiums, ministries, and academies.

His sole consolation was KNOWLEDGE, faith in himself, and in his MISSION.

The breakthrough came in 1989.

A special "seminar to discuss Yu. V. (Yuri Vladimirovich is Chiang's Russian name - Ed.) Chiang Kanzen's paper on biomicrowave communications" was held in Novosibirsk. The seminar, held under the auspices of Acad. V. Kaznacheyev, was attended by some 130 scientists in various fields, most of them with Dr. Sc. and Cand. Sc. degrees. There were also representatives of the USSR Academy of Sciences, the Academy of Medical Sciences, the Agricultural Academy.

Chiang's hypothesis was finally recognized. A Chiang Scientific Foundation and Chiang Institute were founded.

THE WORK CONTINUES....

The Bio-Electro-Magnetic Field As A Material Carrier of Bio-Genetic Information

The bioelectromagnetic radiation of every living being is now no longer in question.

Up to now, however, it was considered that genetic information is transmitted by DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid), known to contain the genetic code in its molecules. [H: Hang on to your seats, readers, and get ready for a "far-out" proof of what we have given you prior to this in that everything in your universe is "electric" ENERGY-- at LIGHT FREQUENCY AND HIGHER, IF IT BE "MANIFEST".]

Advances in modern physics have led me to assume that DNA is, in fact, only a "cassette" with recorded information, whose actual material carriers are bioelectromagnetic signals. In other words, the electromagnetic field and DNA together make up COMBINED GENETIC MATERIAL, which exists in two forms: a passive (DNA) and an active (bioelectromagnetic field) form. The passive form preserves the genetic code, the active (transmitting) form is able to modify it. [H: Does, say, Dr. Sagan know about this? Well, if he doesn't he should be flunked from his doctoral degrees! These are the better-kept secrets being held at LEAST until the "control" grid for mass brain-manipulation and population "control" is in better working order. I would suggest that Dr. Sagan does not know very much about the extensive advances in this science except from observation--but indeed, this is one of the "hidden agendas".]

BLOCK DIAGRAM OF «BIOMICROWAVE COMMUNICATIONS INSTALLATION»:

1 - Receiver;

2 - Transmission line with regulator unit, and

3 - Transmitter

The installation «picks up» DNA data from one living object and directs it at another

In what part of the spectrum is the bioelectromagnetic radiation emitted during the organism's vital activities?

Bioelectromagnetic signals (signals transmitting energy and information simultaneously) are moving PHOTONS [H: Remember our old "photons"? You know, the ones that got me tagged by Herr Gritz as a phony bunch of baloney??] which, according to the quantum theory, possess corpuscular and wave properties.

The corpuscular properties of the photon presuppose the use of the low-frequency band, for in that case the organism receives the largest amount of information. It is known that the lower a photon's frequency is, the smaller is its energy and, hence, the organism's limited energy can excite the most photons. [H: Does it make more sense now that someone(s) DOWN THERE wants to keep you from having the material being held hostage by US&P]

The photon's wave properties, on the other hand, dictate the need to study the highest- frequency portion of the spectrum, which has a big transmission bandwidth. This would make possible the reception of a large body of information and a high quality of transmission.

Consequently, the bioelectromagnetic field, i.e., the material carrier of energy and information, exists in both the microwave and the IR range, in the middle portion of the electromagnetic spectrum.

Laboratory experiments with the "biomicrowave communications" installation yielded positive results in the field transmission of genetic information. The work was conducted in several areas: in agriculture (plant and animal selection), in medicine (fighting diseases, organism rejuvenation), and in other fields of genetics. [H: Perhaps out of all of this you will finally REALIZE that "cancer" is simply a mutation of cells and the "treatment" utilized is fantastically more damaging than the disease itself. The "treatment" is always to radiate poison or whatever, the cells in point--only to the destruction of the immune system which is supposed to handle any mutated cells as they occur. And, as a matter of FACT, it will be found that the microwave frequencies do alter the frequency of cellular structure--but do not, in fact, (as you recognize the explanation) cause "cancer". If, for instance, one is on a regime of something such as Gaiaandriana--the microwave frequencies can only enhance the immune system frequency as carried in those Dria/Drio cells. (within reasonable exposure, of course). If you humans do not bring up the frequency of your BODY electric, you cannot offset the assault as of these frequencies upon that BODY physical. Also, as can be seen by this very article in point, if you allow your immune systems to become so corrupted and insulted as is planned by the would-be "Kings", you will very definitely have tumorous changes in cellular mass and the long-shot of such is death of the host body--and/or mutation of such proportion as to cross-hybrid your own species. If it can be done with a tomato or a chicken, good buddies--IT IS ALSO BEING DONE, AS WE WRITE, TO THE HUMAN!]

Plant And Animal Selection Experimental Results

1. The effect produced by the bioelectromagnetic field of green wheat mass (the donor, placed in the receiver) on germinated maize kernels (the recipient, in the transmitter). [Editor's note: this is accurate to the original article, but it would seem to make more sense to reverse placements of the words "receiver" and "transmitter".]

The grown maize had many side stalks; in place of the cob heads there formed original ears with grains like those of both wheat and maize. Besides, the tested maize was found to be superior to a reference lot by 200 percent in kernel yield and by 300 percent in mass. Furthermore, the acquired changes were inherited by subsequent generations.

2. The effect produced by the bioelectromagnetic field of donor melons on germinated cucumber recipient seeds.

The grown cucumbers had the taste of a melon. Biochemical analysis proved the presence of DNA modifications. The acquired changes were passed on from one generation to another.

3. The effect produced by the bioelectromagnetic field of donor peanuts on recipient sunflower sprouts.

The sunflower seeds underwent a change of shape; part of them acquired a peanut taste.

4. The effect produced by the bioelectromagnetic field of a donor duck on recipient hen's eggs.

Four hundred and eighty chicks hatched from the 500 eggs subjected to the influence of a duck's bioelectromagnetic field. The following changes were observed in the chicks.

- the development of foot webbing (in 25 percent of the chicks);

- a flat-shaped duck-like head (in 80 percent);
- a long neck (in 70 percent), and
- mid-section opening of the eyes (in 90 percent).

The acquired changes were later transmitted from generation to generation.

5. The effect produced by the bioelectromagnetic field of a donor goat with long curved horns on a recipient pregnant female rabbit.

The offspring rabbits developed large curved teeth.

Organism Rejuvenation

As a doctor, I am particularly interested in the electromagnetic field of young organisms on older ones.

The initial experiments were staged on old mice exposed to the bioelectromagnetic radiation of sprouts and animal embryos.

The obtained results:

- restoration of the sexual and reproductive functions (in 31 percent of the mice);
- extension of the life span by 1-1.5 years compared to the control group of mice (in 53 percent), and
- an improvement in appetite, reactions, and mobility (in 68 percent of the mice).

In 1987 I performed a similar experiment on myself. Its positive results were borne out by both objective and subjective evidence.

The second person who volunteered to test the method of organism rejuvenation was my 80-year-old father.

As a result, some of his 20- and 30-year-old health problems disappeared, among them an allergic itch, noise in the ears, and a benign tumor; hair appeared on bald spots six months later, the grey hair turned black, and a new tooth appeared instead of one that had fallen out 20 years earlier.

The positive results obtained in this area had by 1991 provided the grounds for patenting the invention "A Method of Organism Rejuvenation" and securing the Health Ministry's authorization to practise the microwave therapy technique.

Theoretical Grounds of Organism Rejuvenation

There is a biological law that the average life-span of mammals equals five to seven of their development periods. Therefore, the average life duration of a human being should be 125-175 years, since the human development period lasts 25 years. The actual duration of a human life, however, comprises only three development periods.

I consider that the aging of the/an organism is caused by a variety of factors, which upset the delicate structures of active genes so that these structures cannot be restored.

Only 0.2-2.0 percent of all the genes are active genes.

Patients	Age					Total number
	40 - 50	51 - 60	61 - 70	71 - 80	81 and over
Male	2	5	3	1	-	11
Female	1	2	-	-	-	3
Total	3	7	3	1	-	14

In my opinion, the bioelectromagnetic radiation of young organisms of other species activates the silent genes in old organisms. The process involves the law of ontogeny, i.e., the curtailed recurrence of the major systemogenetic processes, and the law of regeneration.

Results of The Application of The Method of Microwave Therapy (Including Rejuvenation)

After the Health Ministry granted me permission to use the method of microwave therapy, a group of 14 patients who had volunteered for the treatment was formed. [Please see chart.]

The nosology distribution in the group was as follows: atherosclerosis--5 cases; stenocardia--2; earlier insult--2; ulcerous condition of gastrointestinal tract--4; hepatitis--5; spinal osteochondrosis--6; arthrosis--2; eczema--3; psoriasis--1; neurosis--7, and benign tumor--2. All told, there were 39 cases in 11 nosological units for 14 patients (averaging about three diseases per patient).

Treatment results: complete cure--6 cases, including benign tumour; considerable improvement--21 cases; improvement--8 cases, and no change--2 cases.

Rejuvenation signs:

- improved general condition--12 patients;
- improved appearance (5-10 years "younger")--11 patients;
- disappearance of grey hair--9 patients, and
- improvement in sexual functions--7 patients.

The first clear conclusion that emerges from the results of these experiments is as follows: If humanity feels the need to correct the course of its civilization, it already has the means to do so. All that is needed is for nations to simply decide to establish a well-informed and well-prepared political leadership that will swiftly implement the changes necessary to improve overall living conditions--specifically, health and the extension of physical life. High-quality food self-sufficiency, of course, must be the starting point for all of this.

Royal Raymond Rife, Great Inventor

"In the years between your mid-twenties and say, 1945, R. Royal Rife¹ had developed a method whereby he could irradiate the little crystalline viruses with the specifically proper radio sound wave, and disrupt them without disrupting human tissue.

Orthodox doctors promptly say that is, of course, hogwash (or worse). Well, the next question for the "nonsense" crowd is to inquire as to whether or not they think you can destroy viruses with light or shake them to death? Ah so--next ask them what method do they use in the laboratories when "critters" are blown out their hoods when they are experimenting. WHAT THEY USE IS ULTRA VIOLET LIGHT WHICH IS NOTHING MORE THAN ELECTROMAGNETIC RADIATION OF A PROPER WAVE LENGTH.

Even on dense Earth, it is proven beyond anyone's misrepresentation, that electromagnetic radiation of a proper form can and will kill viruses.

Right out of the aforementioned Baylor University, came the public information that they had taken blood which was contaminated with herpes virus, with cytomegalovirus (which is a deadly thing in an organ transplant patient), and with AIDS virus. They irradiated the blood with laser light and showed that they could kill the virus without killing the cells. The cells were still viable but the viruses had been destroyed.

Now would that not somehow broach the very topic of electromagnetic cure of viral diseases? THIS, READERS, IS FROM WHENCE THE AIDS CURE WILL COME.

A simple machine, much more simple than your accepted x-ray equipment, can be utilized which will identify, based upon readings determining what kind of virus is present, and treat the human being with a frequency beam jolt which will destroy the virus contained within, not only his blood but throughout his entire body. It must be throughout the body to preclude reinvasion.

¹ Royal R. Rife, an independent researcher, was born on May 16, 1888 in Elkhorn, Nebraska and died at age 83 on August 5, 1971, at Grossmont Hospital. He has authored a breakthrough discovery for the cure of viral diseases among others.

You can then eradicate, not only AIDS, but all other human retroviruses as well. They are nothing more than animal retroviruses running in humans. Persons can be cured individually and the diseases eradicated worldwide. You sure could clean up your animal herds as well.

The virus is a very, very minute little beastie that is very hard to see by any means whatsoever. Dr. Rife devised a method whereby he could visualize the viruses. Rife was a most gifted machinist and invented a microscope with which he could actually view viruses in the living state. The microscope had a magnification of 70 to 100,000 times in living tissue. These machines existed in fact, and two or three are still around today just awaiting eager minds and hands to bring back into perfection. It requires a whole concept change of thought acceptance, however, from your scientific community -- you see, things have not politically nor egotistically changed in mankind in those ensuing years.

Rife actually invented this machine and could view viruses in living tissue and also was able to determine the mortal oscillatory rate, which is the frequency with which he would irradiate the viruses in order to kill them.

Dr. Rife called the mortal oscillatory rate the MOR. He found that he could bombard the cell, devisualize all atoms save the virus and irradiate it with basically monochromatic light, which today you would refer to as laser light, the virus would "illumine", would absorb energy and emit energy allowing visualization, and then by increasing the amplitude of the energy input into the virus he could cause the virus to disrupt.

This is not only feasible, it is absolutely credible and workable.

Royal Rife's work clearly demonstrated specific frequencies associated with particular viruses and disease organisms. In addition, his universal microscope, using evanescent waves, or waves with only hyperdimensional components, had no wave length limitations on its resolution. Consequently, it could see directly into the virtuous state past the limit of the photon. Indeed, it could not only see the exceedingly small point cells that lie between ordinary cells and are just barely visible to the "best" orthodox light microscope, but it allowed visualization of some sixteen internested, deeper and smaller levels of structures within the point cell. Nothing before or since has achieved such a penetration. There are two or three of these scopes around that can be brought into repair

Using this microscope he could see virtual state energy forces functioning and moving. The biology his microscope revealed was far beyond the state of biology today. It was unorthodox in conception and presented a great threat to your orthodox medical and scientific communities. If you are going to create and spread an incurable disease to fit your purposes you most certainly do not desire the cure to get there prior to the infection. Oh yes, that is exactly what occurred, little dreamers. With his scope, Rife could not only "see" the little varmints but he learned to manipulate and control the living internal structure of living electricity. Now please refer to the Nobel prize this past week for the ability to isolate a single unit of electricity and stabilize it. Honors be to that one. Learn what you can from that researcher-- you are going to find that electricity units are living structures.

Since interested levels of virtual state are also "higher" spaces, or hyperdimensional, Rife's microscope was the first and only instrument to allow vision directly into higher dimensions and observe the higher dimensional living forms.

In Rife's time such a thing was unthinkable to medical science, yet today with substantial evanescent wave technology already utilized in wave guides² and with a well-developed body of evanescent wave theory, you could prove that Rife's microscope was capable of doing precisely what he and other scientists reported. But what happens? It is further hidden to cover the lack of interest and ridicule of the past actions. Perhaps nothing in history ever changes except the names and places.

It is important to note here for the less sophisticated reader: "evanescent" means to dissipate like vapor -- tending to vanish like a vapor.

Included in those exceedingly complex modulations and spectrums, every cell has a complicated electromagnetic radiation spectrum. An abnormal cell has an abnormal change to that spectrum. If you subtract the normal cell spectrum from the abnormal cell spectrum you have a specific delta that then, introduced into a normal cell, will convert that kind of abnormal cell.

When you have such a single pattern for cancer conversion, for example, you can irradiate a normal cell with it and turn that cell into a cancer cell. However, suppose you phase conjugate that cancer conversion single pattern. The phase conjugate³ replica will be the pattern that precisely converts that sort of cancer cell back to a normal status. With phase conjugate replicas of cancer cells specific delta⁴ frequencies are fed into the cells of a body having that cancer, the cancer cell's master cellular control system will modulate with these time reverse specific signals. That will return the cancer cells within the body to the proper master cellular control system of the animal.

² A waveguide is a structure that guides waves, such as electromagnetic waves or sound, with minimal loss of energy by restricting expansion to one dimension or two.

³ Phase conjugation is a physical transformation of a wave field where the resulting field has a reversed propagation direction but keeps its amplitudes and phases.

⁴ Variation

Thusly, the cancerous cells will be immediately destroyed or reverted back to a normal cell. A very similar process exists for just about every disease bacteria and infectious agent, including the viruses of AIDS. As a matter of fact, the viruses are more easily disrupted due to their crystalline formation.

In the Soviet Union it has been proven that any cellular death and disease pattern can be induced by a specific pattern carried on an electromagnetic signal. If the target cells are bombarded with the pattern carrying carrier signals for enough length of time.

In Australia these experiments have been fully replicated and extended. These documents should be easily obtained, say by Cathie of New Zealand, and nab onto the researchers. In Australia they have induced cellular death and diseases between cell cultures at a distance of over a hundred feet -- a most convenient distance indeed. Unfortunately, these experiments, thousands of them, were done in military institutes; but I see no particular problem in obtaining them.

Scientists in West Germany have also replicated these cellular experiments. However, the important missing link is that these experiments have some unpublished data to be gathered; that portion was the corresponding Soviet work showing electromagnetic REVERSAL of cellular death and diseases conditioned by irradiation by phase conjugate replicas of the pattern carrying induction signal. Briefly: If an action in forward time induces a condition then the time reversal of that action will reverse the condition. (YOU SEE, YOU ARE DEALING IN HIGHER DIMENSIONS WHERE THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS TIME AND SPACE!) The concept is so laughably simple that it eludes you ones. The time reversal of an electromagnetic disease process is a specific electromagnetic healing process for that particular disease.

Rife's microscope could easily allow visualization of viruses for it could easily defeat the wave length limitation of the light frequency utilized.

It has now been proven, in your own physics studies, that the wave length limit in optical instruments can be violated by utilizing evanescence complex waves. Rife's microscope utilized such waves and thusly, normal light wave length was not a limitation.

When an instrument is utilized to make complex waves, it can also be utilized to make phase conjugate waves. Rife's microscope could also be utilized to determine the exact color frequency pattern associated with specific disease organisms. There is great knowledge herein for it allows for the exact matching of frequency patterns.

Well, Rife got the usual warm treatment by his fellow man in payment for his services. He was bound over into prison and when he was later released he was a broken and discouraged man. He lived out his remaining life in retreat and his death was hardly noted".

At this point already, one can have a clear idea of the extent of the scope and the awesome effectiveness of the electromagnetic system properly applied to the human body for a quick, simple and lasting healing.

Master Cellular Communication System

"The intrinsic virtual state of cellular control has already been discovered and pointed out. This massive communication system controls all cells in a body and all the functions thereof. This is a "life electromagnetic" system. Your new researchers wish to call this system "Scalar", we have no objections, therefore, I will refer to this as SEM since you ones do enjoy your alphabet.

The SEM conductivity pattern is not through the electron shells of the atoms but is directly through the nuclei SEM pathways. The SEM pattern's organized signals, non-specific vector electromagnetic (EM) waves, which externally sum the zero vector on already existing waves, can be constructed for virtually any specific purpose. This includes the ability to destroy a particle such as a virus, cancer cell, leukemia, bacteria--anything within or without individual cells--these frequencies can be created which will actually alter the very DNA/RNA. Through this approach the immune system and repair system of the body or cell, itself, can be reached and manipulated selectively. Thus, the entire biochemistry and functioning of a cell, including its genetics, is totally engineerable.

Further, a specific "charge pattern" can be designed and utilized to charge up the nuclei of the biosystem to fabricate specific immunity response. This charge, once established, is then maintained by the "master" system to allow for permanent immunity--in other words, you change the master computer to include the new and reject the old data.

To understand this just stated concept, you need to know something about brain, mind and thought basic functioning. It has been isolated and described on your place sufficiently to scientifically organize it. It, of course, is crude in isolation for it is the etheric aspect of life itself and you ones are not given to understand it in actuality. The concept is sufficient for this discourse".

The scientific display that has just been made in the previous excerpts proves that many doors are already open but hidden from public knowledge and especially whose practical implementation is not allowed for the benefit of the Peoples of Terra. We continue.

Antoine Priore "Machine"

Priore constructed an electromagnetic treatment machine and demonstrated a close to 100 percent "kill" (cure) of all kinds of carcinomas, leukemias, etc., in thousands of laboratory tests utilizing animal forms. These tests were openly shared with American scientists as early as your 1960's. At the time of the research, the French government funded several millions of dollars for Dr. Priore's research.

Into a tube containing a plasma of mercury and neon gas (hold this combination in your hearts for Sir Russell will expand on this subject later), a pulsed 9.4 gigacycles wave modulated carrier frequency of 17 megacycles was introduced. These waves were produced by radio emitters and magnetrons in the presence of a 1,000 Gauss (the cgs 'centimeter-gram-second' unit of magnetic induction equal to the magnetic flux density that will induce an electromotive force of one one-hundred millionth of a volt in each linear centimeter per second at right angles to a magnetic flux) magnetic field.

Dr. Priore exposed experimental animals to this magnetic field during irradiation and a mixture of waves, some seventeen or so, coming from the plasma tube and modulating and riding the magnetic field, passed through the animal's body. Among other things, as plasma can convert a transverse wave to a longitudinal wave, also phase conjugate, time reversal waves can be produced.

Phase conjugated electromagnetic waves carry negative energy and negative time. They exhibit negentropy⁵ and move from disorder back to order. The proof is already in the hundreds of technical papers in non-linear phase conjugate optics in the orthodox scientific literature but ones continue to misinterpret the true definitions of terminology. Dr. Priore's apparatus produced a SEM signal with deliberately constructed, unfolded components including phase and conjugated electromagnetic waves.

Further, keep in mind that just to send out waves is inconsequential unless you have a correctly tuned receiver crystal for exacting frequency. You must integrate the information into a single functioning apparatus.

In his device, Priore internally structured the carrier photons themselves, making them vacuum engines. This structure contained the dynamic delta for the disease. By introducing these spectrum to a giant rotating plasma he then phase conjugated his vacuum engines and then passed these time reversed vacuum engines down and through a strong magnetic field which thoroughly penetrated all cells of the biological organism being treated. The scalar components that are the structured photons representing the time reversal of the disease were absorbed and re-radiated in all cells, charging up the nuclei of the atoms and organisms to some potential level of that exact healing and reversing pattern.

In that way he passed a specific cancer reversal phase conjugate replica into every cell of the body, charging the cellular biopotential and producing a permanent healing delta onto the body's cellular master control system. In the process that cancels that in leukemia pattern, charging the nuclei was cancelled and discharged. The new time reverse charge also destroyed the cancer cells or converted them back into normal cells. That, my friends, cured the disease even in terminal instances--- all of them. Yes, I said ALL OF THEM!

Further, for the disbeliever; he could cure sleeping sickness and any viral disease, et cetera, et cetera. In other words, the process represented a severe stress against any cellular control system delta encountered. This caused a return to the normal cell's and master cell's cellular control system of the body.

But What Happens To The Normal Cell Who Happens To Be There?

Encountering the normal control system in normal cells there was no delta--therefore there was zero stress. Encountering the abnormal control system in tumor cells it produced great and specific stress on it and reverted it to the normal control system of the body's normal cell. If the cancer cell could not withstand the stress it died promptly. Thus, to a normal cell the Priore signal pattern acted somewhat soothingly as a stroking to normal cell structures and no interference occurred with the normal cell---that is, one whose scalar control pattern is locked to the body's master cellular control system and in phase with it.

The Priore signal stimulated and stroked the normal cell but did not injure it in any manner. On the other hand, the scalar potential pattern in and of an abnormal, say cancerous cell, is out of phase with the body's master cellular control system and is not phase locked to it. Hence the Priore signal causes direct interference with the abnormal cell's independent scalar control system. The interference pattern constituted the reconstruction of normal energy directed to the cancer cell and also jammed its abnormal scalar life signals. This destroyed the cancerous cell by two mechanisms:

1. Physical energy was channeled directly into the abnormal cells causing direct mechanical damage, and,
2. The cancer cell, being an independent living "critter", had its scalar life-channel connected to his primitive mind which connected his primitive mind to his body, jammed and terminated.

Abnormal Returned To Normal

If the cancer cell was reverted to a normal cell by the Priore stress before being destroyed, it became just a normal cell and the Priore stress had no further effect upon it. Any disease with cellular, biochemical or genetic basis can be cured in like manner. Priore's method, for example, was clearly shown to be able to completely reverse fatty deposit clogged arteries and further, lowered cholesterol levels to normal even in the occurrence of abnormally high cholesterol diets.

Every cell of the body, however, even the hair must be irradiated and treated, that is, charged up with the signal for the disease pattern is located in every body cell. The master cellular control system is holographic. The pattern that is substructured and potential with its dynamic and oscillating component is in each component, that is, in each atomic nucleus, hence is in each and every cell. Every structural level of the body larger than a cell also has its own correlated pattern of modulation on the overall. The biological organism can regenerate lost limbs, for example, if it can utilize its natural recovery process in a Priore manner. Even though Priore's work was presented to the French Academy of Sciences, it was far beyond the group's ability to understand the device or its function.

I do speak here of the 1970s. The academicians knew nothing of scalar electromagnetics and phase conjugation and that is exactly what the Priore device was. More the medical world saw a phasing out of their very expensive services--a dual motivation to squash this unsettling crazy man.

Sad for mankind, in 1974 the funding was withdrawn just as Priore was completing a device which could irradiate an entire human body. It would have been capable of curing almost all human diseases. Ah, but then, you might not have been able to enjoy this plague and tribulation and the cycle ending would undoubtedly have been postponed. Man, unfortunately, rarely changes the probabilities in a positive way--just runs headlong into disaster faster and faster.

In that particular machine Priore utilized a lamp, in which 17 specific frequencies were mixed and modulated upon a 9.4 gigacycles carrier. The machine was large enough to irradiate humans over their whole body. It should have been capable of curing cancer, leukemia and AIDS in two, five minute irradiations -- a week apart.

While Priore was still in your dimension (physically alive), a major thrust was made to bring the device to market and into medical research and into utilization. The devices were to be assembled in France and then shipped to purchasers, who would be large research and development laboratories where they could be brought into local specifications. I think it is sufficient to note that "big brother" put a stop to the funding for the project and the work had to be shelved

It is a fact that such signals can reverse nearly every cellular illness or condition of the body. The program to produce the cure for AIDS in this manner only requires the necessary funding and the assembling of the persons (left un-named for obvious reasons) to do the job.

What About Those Soviets ?

Well, the Soviets proved conclusively that any cellular disease or death pattern can be transmitted electromagnetically and induced in target cells absorbing the radiation. They also found they could do this from great distances of some several thousands of miles. Do your cells cringe every now and then?

The Soviets reported their effect using near ultra violet photons as carriers. The ultra violet photons were those emitted in death by a diseased or damaged cell as it dies. That is the bioluminescence which carry the property substructure. Photon bombardment of the target cell culture by the death pattern photons, and remember these conditioned photons are specific vacuum engines, induced the exact disease pattern in those shells after a charge-up of kindred period of time. During that charge-up time the atomic model in a target cell culture was charged-up with tailored photon vacuum engines which carried the exact cellular death pattern. As charge-up proceeded, the death pattern was gradually introduced onto the master cellular control system, at the cells in the target culture.

The West German scientists utilized infra-red waves, that is, the infra-red conditioning photon vacuum engine. Please, particularly note that it is already well known in quantum mechanics, better known as electrodynamics perhaps, that when a photon is emitted from the surface of dielectric body, the entire dielectric body participates in that emission. Another definition please: "dielectric": A non-conductor of direct electric current. Also, "dielectric heating": The rapid and uniform heating throughout a non-conducting material by means of a high frequency electromagnetic field. (He who has eyes, please let him see!) If a photon is absorbed on the surface of the dielectric body the entire dielectric body participates in that absorption. Note also, that whether or not cellular disease conditions can be corrected by time reverse signals must certainly have occurred to your friendly Soviets, since this has already been widely utilized in the Soviet's giant Scalar Electromagnetic weapons---oh yes, the same ones that backfeed.

End of quote.

Another obvious conclusion to draw, after reviewing the scientific findings mentioned above, is that it has been quite clearly proved that our so-called human societies are caught up in a system of injustice within which no importance is attached to Life other than contempt and profit at any cost, against a backdrop of overwhelming, deliberate, and sustained parasitism. Not only does so-called modern allopathic medicine fail to heal the individual, but it kills them at their own expense. We pay to be killed by the drugs and poisons of the pharmaceutical industry, even though simple herbal remedies exist that are far more effective; when combined with a healthy lifestyle--both in terms of diet and mental well-being--they will allow us to heal our bodies and extend our precious lives.

All these possibilities, made available by conclusive research conducted by brilliant, altruistic minds, have been and continue to be suppressed by the cabalistic establishment hiding behind the smokescreen of official sociopathic, sociopolitical puppets. Political will alone will never suffice in the face of this plight if advanced practical knowledge is not brought to bear.

This brings us to addressing the topic of overhauling and rebuilding the field of public health through advanced and proven scientific and technological approaches.

The High Scientific-Technological Dimension

In light of all the above-detailed elements of the outstanding scientific work been obscured, it becomes evident that it is these achievements that must capture the attention of the leadership building the new civilization of the coming Golden Age. These achievements have led to marvelous and prodigious results that enable the production of highly sophisticated devices designed to simplify life in terms of Global Bodily Harmony, holistic health, far removed from all the Satanic commercial medical confusion to which the entire civilization is currently a victim, for the benefit of the Globalists' machinery, composed entirely of soulless human simulacra and produce of Luciferian genetic engineering.

This is the advanced scientific aspect under discussion here.

But what must be kept foremost in mind in all of this is that all true and permanent healing occurs through the mind--that is, the spirit. With that understanding in mind, any healing method must be viewed as a mere aid developed by the human mind by imitating the mind's operational process to facilitate the healing. This is what our modern or traditional medicine should be, and in line with this logic, every procedure receives the approval and participation of the Divine Spirit within each person. Viewed and guided from this perspective, harmony and balance are quickly restored to the human body.

All of this has been deliberately suppressed by a malicious, unofficial political-economic censorship aimed at trampling on Life and reducing human beings to a mere nothing. The mere introduction of the simple and effective means of healing outlined above will provide humanity upon Earth with immense possibilities for healing and fulfillment, free from drug addiction. We will even see that traditional herbal treatments will become a thing of the past, thanks to these advanced technological capabilities. With more comprehensive public education on healthy and balanced nutrition, and all the measures that must be taken to clean up the agri-food sector, this will lead to the eradication of most infectious and nutritional diseases and, consequently, to a drastic and rapid reduction in mortality, resulting in a natural extension of life.

With this in mind, our restructured medical institutions can be refocused on specializations, as already outlined above (page 59, allopathic medicine), to manage specific and severe cases until total harmony prevails. In any case, the focus must be on the prime development of these proven, simple healing means so that they can be made available to the entire population as soon as possible. The implementation of these well-documented and proven scientific inventions will lead to the development of several multifunctional devices whose widespread use will make restoring and maintaining the body's physical balance much easier, simpler, and more sustainable. Since this research is already available, it will not take long to develop these devices and make them operational. Ultimately, this approach will prevail in the practical management of cellular imbalances affecting the body form.

In summary, we have access to the works of the great inventor Raymond Royal Rife--including his super microscope, among other devices--which allow us to observe and identify the types of pathogens present, as well as their specific frequencies. Furthermore, we have at our disposal the electromagnetic device developed by the great Sir. Antoine Priore, which offers the ability to treat all these harmful agents with the appropriate frequencies to rid the entire body of its unwanted guests--and to do so in record time. Restoring the overall balance of the human body becomes, at this stage, child's play--a very simple matter, indeed. Once this is accomplished, the entire mess created by the so-called medical profession (namely, the pharmaceutical industry with all its toxic artificial drugs, hospitals with their cumbersome, costly, and inefficient facilities, and the various medical specialties that have been deliberately fragmented) will thus disappear from the social and healthcare landscape, making way for lightweight, medium-sized preventive and curative care units that are closer to the people.

The Spiritual Energetic Dimension

Before addressing the spiritual-energetic dimension of this topic, let's clarify the common definitions of certain technical terms related to the healing means discussed in this chapter.

Hypnosis: It is an altered state of consciousness, distinct from both sleep and wakefulness. It is characterized by intense focus and heightened receptivity to suggestions. Used in therapy or personal development, it allows for changes in perception, memory, and behavior.

Hypnotherapy: This is the use of hypnosis for specific therapeutic purposes. It is practiced by a hypnotherapist and, more broadly, by psychotherapists who use hypnosis.

Naturopathy: This is a form of alternative medicine that aims to balance the body's functions through methods considered "natural": diet, aromatherapy, lifestyle, herbal medicine, manual techniques, exercise, etc.

Chromotherapy (or Color Therapy): This is a method of harmonization and support for healing certain physical or emotional disorders through the use of colors. The treatment is based on the sensory organs, including sight.

The path of mental energy therapy, within a holistic approach, is the one that will inevitably lead human civilization to the use of effective tools such as Hypnotherapy and Meditation in communion with the Divine Presence within each person, essentially.

First, let us examine the concept of hypnotherapy in greater detail. Hypnosis is the technique used by the mind to access the human subconscious; the subconscious is what constitutes and houses all the past experiences of the evolving human being since the beginning of their life journey in physical form. Since the essence of what determines the fabric of our current lives resides in the subconscious, hypnosis proves to be a valuable tool, the mastery of which is crucial for managing the events of daily life. Why does the subconscious play such a decisive role? Because manifest reality is merely the result of sustained thoughts that gradually transform into subtle thought-forms, which eventually densify and become manifest on the plane of incarnation. Since the subconscious is the repository of our long-established thought patterns--formed over the course of past lives--which the waking consciousness has, so to speak, partially lost sight of, these thought patterns become a psycho-emotional burden that continues to impact the fabric of our daily lives. This is where hypnosis comes into play, because the ego's will alone is not enough to alter the pattern woven into the individual's subconscious by the person's own past choices. Hypnosis thus allows the individual to subject the ego to a higher will--that of the Divine Mind--and thereby access the subconscious to reprogram it with more harmonious energetic patterns.

We therefore speak of hypnotherapy when hypnosis is used for these specific therapeutic purposes--on the one hand, with the assistance of an experienced hypnotherapist, preferably one of high moral integrity, and, on the other hand, through the technique of self-hypnosis practiced by the individual on self to restate and modify--or, more precisely, to shed light on--the shadowy areas of his subconscious that keep him on a flawed life path.

Next, we have daily Meditation in communion with the Mighty Divine Presence within each individual, whose physical body is a living Divine temple--the only Divine temple that truly matters. The Creator-God is the sole Reality accepted and proclaimed by all. And He is Omnipresent within us and all around us, on earth and throughout all of Creation. Thought is the source of Creation; thus, the One Creator is the One Thinker, and His Thought is Creation. Since all creatures within Creation are fragments of the ONE, endowed with free will, they are made in the image and likeness of the ONE. Consequently, just as the Creator's Thought has created, creates, and sustains all of Creation in existence, the thoughts of the creature--in this case, the human being--do likewise. It is our thoughts that create our reality. By logical deduction, to be master of the circumstances of one's life, the individual must learn to become master of his thoughts.

Nevertheless, to create with excellence and perfection, the thought process must operate in alignment with the Laws of Creation, the Law of the ONE, the laws of Balanced Rhythmic Interchange, or the principle of equal Giving and Regiving. This cannot be achieved through the ego's limited will; only co-creation through a conscious and sustained journey with the Divine Presence--the Thought Adjuster--within ourselves gives us the full power to do so. The One Divine Will alone enables Fullness in Completeness and Power. Thus, to create or recreate one's life in accordance with the perfection of the Laws of Creation, it is imperative to do so in constant communion with the consciousness of the Creator/Creation Father-Mother dwelling at the heart of our being, the Divine Temple. This alone enables the individual to understand the workings of life, granting him the power to create happy circumstances and to "un-create" unhappy ones. And only this process deserves to be called "Healing," for all true healing occurs through the mind and is lasting and complete--that is, it involves the mind, soul, and body. It should be noted that hypnotherapy is a supplementary tool, complementary to Divine meditation, used to help accelerate the process.

Alongside the use of appliances from Plasma Science/Electromagnetism already mentioned in the previous chapter, these wonderful related energetic tools--such as naturopathy, chromotherapy, radionics (sound therapy), etc.--which are simple and readily available--will enable the holistic healing of every individual on Earth and rid our societies of pathogens created primarily by humans for the malevolent purposes of control and depopulation. Their implementation will facilitate the rapid restoration of harmony to the physical form. At this point, a reminder is in order. The holistic path involves treating the entity on both the subtle and dense planes--Body, Soul, Spirit--which enables a return to life and service to Life in Harmony and Balance through the liberation of the soul from within. This is Trine Bodily Harmony, with the subconscious playing a crucial role in the process. Once again, the New Science has a crucial role to play in this emerging New Civilization of the Cosmic Age.

The Soul is in great need of a profound healing from the errors accumulated over thousands of years, fostered by the misleading teachings with which it has been fed for so long that it has lost the thread leading to Truth and to the true Reality of the Nature of Life and the Purpose of Life.

The Sanitation of Food Production

An excerpt from Phoenix Journals N° 130, dictated by Aton Micael, to broaden the reader's perspective and set the scene.

Beginning of quote.

Rome Was Destroyed By The Jews...By Demineralized Bread And Other Means of Secret Warfare

In Jewish Encyclopaedia under the heading "Bread", I found the statement, "White bread reduces the feces, (causes constipation) and feeds the brain". We find that this means "starves the brain" for it is stated both directly and indirectly that "black is white" (read by opposites). Twelve elements proved to be necessary to health and thought are removed from the grain with bran.

A reference given leads to the statement, "The tree of knowledge Adam ate from, was wheat". Being referred again, we find, "The flour in ancient times was fine or coarse as it fell from the mill, from which a finer flour was separated by a hair sieve. The idea that the flour used for the sacrifice was different from that in general use is not warranted". But another reference leads to a statement that shows that the flour used for the sacrifice was different from that in general use, for fine flour is designated, and it is shown distinctly that "sacrifice" means that which is given for charity. There is the command: "If thine enemy hunger give him bread, i.e., the bread of the law". A reference from here leads to "Cookery" and a line of recipes which any food scientist would know were not intended to promote health. From which we find that "bread of the law" is not health bread. "Scraps" is mentioned.

Tracing references through "Hadrian", "Rome", "Nero", "bath" and "charity" we become certain that Rome was led to her fall by a secret enemy and that demineralized food, poisons, and the hot bath were instruments in her fall. The dole given at the breakdown of Roman finance was not a free distribution of grain as we had been taught, but was demineralized bread and other devitalized food similar to that which is being given today in bread lines and soup kitchens in America.

Through the manipulation of finance, and beginning as in America with the lowest stratum of society, the people are brought, stratum by stratum, to the acceptance of charity. The needy were forced to eat devitalized food. Bread, their staff of life through the ages, was the chief article consumed. Plague, diabetes, influenza, cancer, rheumatism, sinusitis, dropsy, abnormalities, feeble-mindedness, and selfishness have followed in the wake of "improved flour mills and the rice polishing machinery in Asia, Europe and America. The people become feeble minded, which accounts for the terrible cruelties of the latter Roman period.

Passages from the Bible and hints from the Jewish Encyclopedia indicate that Jesus of Nazareth was trying to stop the plague that finally destroyed Rome, and that this was the reason for his execution. Zangwill says: "He was hindering the success of our war." [H: You will also, however, note that his name was not Jesus but Esu Emmanuel regardless of what he was doing at the time. Saul of Tarsus staged the name-switch after Esu was GONE from the area. I don't even want to get into the run-around over his perceived "death" or exile in this writing.] Theosophist literature says that Jesus was a physician who had obtained knowledge from inscriptions in Egypt which caused him to teach the Jewish secrets of healing to all.

The Catacombs : Instruments In The Destruction of ROME

Zangwill shows that the Jews were in power in Rome to a greater extent than the Romans realized, in Dreamers of the Ghetto, he says of the CATACOMBS that "They were at first hiding places for the Jews by day", but that after a time "The Jews came out, and the others went in". In this connection he refers to lime as an agent for bringing the "millennium" (explained as the time when the Jews shall set up a world Kingdom). We find an explanation of this use of "lime" in a book, Innocents Abroad by Mark Twain. This tells of a trip by the author through the Catacombs of Rome, and refers to the strange custom of the Romans of burying their dead under the city and stacking the bones--leg bones in one pile, skulls in another, feet in another, etc., and pictures the scramble that must ensue when the last trumpet shall sound and murdered Romans, or of Victims of the plague, the bodies begin to assemble themselves. These bones carried there to conceal how many were dying of the plague.

Quicklime is used to decompose the dead bodies. Hadrian, Ruler of Rome, issued a decree against Jews burying Gentiles. There may have been methods of murdering wholesale and hiding the bodies under the city. There is evidence of underground work in some of our cities today. In her Commune of 1871, Eleanor Marx speaks of the feeble-mindedness of the people never to have inquired from whence came these skeletons.

The California laws for the government of State homes for the feeble-minded give room for wholesale murder or asexualization of normal citizens. "Other persons" (than the ones rightfully belonging) "may be admitted when there is accommodation". Inmates may be transferred, or dismissed and recommitted without authority outside the institution. There is no authority that has the legal right to even inquire the names of the inmates. Special laws exempt these institutions from inspection, investigation or interference, either with the inmates, employees, officers or property of the institution, by the State Board of Lunacy, the only agency provided for the supervision of these institutions. Therefore, while supported by the state at great expense, they are in reality private institutions that may, and do, asexualize the inmates without the necessary authority from outside the institution. Popenoe, head of asexualization in California, states in the official report of 1927 (printed in SOCIAL HYGIENE) that there are a large number in the homes for feeble-minded who are of average intellect, but he says, "None leave without sterilization", for he says, "Feeble-mindedness is not a biological concept. It is a social concept". He represents that for purposes of the state those who cannot make a living are feeble-minded. Under present management, as was the case in Rome, most of the citizens are of this class. (Eleanor Marx in THE HISTORY OF THE COMMUNE OF 1871 refers to institutions for the insane as being hot-beds of crime).

[H: Let us take John Schroepfer as a good example, from here. His wife and her son wanted to GET RID OF HIM. He had tended her hand and false-invalid foot for so long that he was failing mentally--FROM BAD DIET, NO MORE AND NO LESS, A PRIME EXAMPLE. The point is that they were able to cause him to be bonked on the head, rendering him, not to their wishes, dead--but unconscious. Then he ended up in hospital and then they gained CONSERVATORSHIP over him and with cooperation of a DOCTOR put him in an ALZHEIMER'S center. The diagnosis WAS NOT EVEN ALZHEIMER'S. There he was kept prisoner. He, in the beginning, pleaded with his friends for vitamins and when these were supplied HE IMMEDIATELY BECAME BETTER AND VISITORS WERE EXCLUDED 100 PERCENT. JOHN WAS PLACED IN ISOLATION AND THEN SECRETLY MOVED HALF A STATE DISTANT. HE FINALLY HAD TO LITERALLY "BREAKOUT" IN ONE OF HIS MORE LUCID MOMENTS AND "RUN AWAY" JUST AS PLANS WERE APPARENTLY MADE BY THE "MANAGERS" TO TAKE HIM AWAY PERMANENTLY. John literally got out on the same day as an elaborate plan was put into action which would have cost him freedom FOREVER, less than half an hour later. At the "home" involved, the "visitor" coming for John was identified as his "younger brother" but appears to have been possibly his "son". John said he got out and then got away and hitchhiked his way to what he thought would be home. He tried to reach his nephew using a gifted coin. He was found with nothing except the very clothes on his back, no identification, no nothing. Total strangers had picked him up, fed him and gave him phone money. IS THIS EVIL? YOU BE THE JUDGE! WHO WAS BEHIND THE PLAN? ELEANOR (THE WIFE) SAID "GEORGE GREEN" (???). It is too long a story for this minute--however--with supplements and GOOD DIET WITH LOTS OF WHOLE GRAIN SPELT--JOHN IS RECOVERED TO SUFFICIENTLY REMEMBER ALL THE DIRTY-DEEDS AND THE PLAYERS!!]

The White Race, mentally debilitated (because living off on food robbed of materials necessary to thought), are keeping no account of individuals. They do not know what may be happening to the thousands who are being enticed from their homes by too interesting geography teaching, by real estate campaigns, and by information of free foods in missions and free rides on the railroads.

End quoting.

If you haven't yet been able to grasp what is truly at stake on a global scale in this drive toward global control, you have certainly just taken a crucial step toward understanding the issues and all the implications. One of these implications pertains specifically to food, as has just been explained above. A mind can but soundly function in a sound body; otherwise, insanity and apathy take precedence over everything else. Let's define the key terms. Insanity: Refers to a state of unreason, a lack of discernment, or a deprivation of reason. Commonly used in the plural, the term also describes absurd words or actions devoid of common sense. Apathy: A psychological and neurological state characterized by a profound loss of motivation, interest, and energy. People suffering from it have great difficulty initiating actions, show a lack of emotion in response to events (emotional numbness), and appear unconcerned to those around them.

Hence, in order for the entire public health effort to be part of a consistent and responsible approach--with the ultimate goal of restoring a healthy environment and public health--it will be abundantly clear to any reasonable person that the first step, as far as the food sector is concerned, must be a purge of food production and consumer goods. Food consumption, within this process of energetic cleansing, must be considered on the same level as spiritual nourishment; it must be viewed as the material counterpart to the intake of information intended to nourish the spirit-soul--a sound mind in a sound body.

To achieve this, we must begin by eliminating from our dietary habits the toxins and junk food that have been gradually and insidiously (deceptively) introduced into them, taking advantage of--and through--historical circumstances. Some examples that are obvious yet often go unnoticed include white and brown sugar, whether crystallized or powdered; white bread in all its forms; industrial or artisanal spirits; alcoholic beers; so-called energy drinks; sodas and other sugary beverages; various demineralized and genetically modified grains; so-called potable tap and bottled water, which is invariably fluorinated, etc., etc.

Next, a thorough overhaul of the agricultural and consumer goods sectors is an essential step. Imports of food products--whether processed or unprocessed--must be halted, and, at the same time, the use of chemical fertilizers in agriculture must undergo a similar process: namely, a complete halt and total ban. The trend must once again be reversed toward the consumption of naturally grown products that are free from excessive industrial processing and are ultimately toxic to the human body.

Fresh and natural products must, in all cases, regain their rightful place, since only a return to the wisdom of Nature--Divine Nature--will facilitate the restoration of the body's inner harmony. Along this path, traditional and more or less natural preservation means--such as cold storage, dehydration (heat, smoking), salting, etc.--must be brought back into use.

Finally, in this specific food sector, an advanced yet simple technological method derived from cutting-edge electromagnetism will play a decisive role, rendering all traditional means obsolete. Electromagnetism, in certain specific appliances, will provide our societies with the capacity required for the qualitative growth of food crops and the natural, sustainable preservation of the products derived from them. Once implemented, many food-processing devices and household appliances will disappear from the socio-technological landscape.

A new organization of food distribution channels will need to be designed with a focus on proximity and availability within communities. New retail spaces will need to incorporate design elements that ensure both aesthetics and hygiene. This will greatly improve people's living conditions.

Substantive Summary

In essence, the key takeaway from the discussion presented throughout this document--which is intended to shed light on and chart a path toward excellency in the social and health care sector--should be understood as follows.

That global bodily harmony--also known as holistic health--is a state of mind (being) that requires the daily cultivation of thoughts that nourish energy patterns of thought-forms directed toward this very goal. In other words, maintaining the harmony and balance of the body form through thought, which harmonizes the trine body of mind-soul-body.

That the proper functioning of life depends on this process, as the spirit requires a sound vehicle to function more effectively in the physical realm.

That to achieve this, a natural, healthy, and complete diet is essential for maintaining these optimal conditions for mind functioning, since the body form is a vital instrument in the service of the game of physical life.

That unlike what most people believe, modern medicine is a great harm facing humankind upon Earth. Not only does it fail to heal human beings, but it intentionally kills them at its own expense.

That the medication administered to human beings constitutes precisely the harmful means by which they are insidiously poisoned, in addition to the malnutrition they suffer due to the demineralization of food through malicious genetic engineering.

That, nevertheless, solutions exist through the scientific work of great minds which are capable of providing--and indeed have already provided--a rapid resolution to reverse the plight in which all of humanity has become mired.

That only through the enlightened and courageous implementation of advanced knowledge in electromagnetic devices will mankind prevail, and that to achieve this, a rise in public awareness is necessary to enable the rise to power of a strong, informed, and prepared leadership that will ensure the transformation of the entire face of civilization.

That the only path to this great spiritual awakening is through reconnection with the Almighty Divine Presence within each of us, and especially within the leadership group aspiring to conduct State affairs. This is achieved through daily Divine meditation leading to intentional work with the Creator-God within oneself.

That all of this, once in place, will lead to the lasting liberation of nations, the restoration of public health--with the advanced outcomes of disease eradication, environmental remediation, and extended life expectancy--all within a context of highly enlightened political stability.

That thusly, this essential mainstay of civilization-- that is Global Bodily Harmony-- will have been understood and integrated into the global equation for restoring balance upon Terra Earth.
